Capsule Recovered; Tiny Space Travelers Found to be Alive

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Three mice named Sally, Amy and Moe rocketed 700 miles into space today and the Atlas nose cone they rode in was recovered from the South Atlantic, 5,000 miles away. It was not known immediately whether the mice survived.

The air force announced the Atlas successfully delivered the 1½-ton cone to an intended impact area north of Ascension Island. The announcement said the ocean range vessel coastal crusader fished the cone from the sea.

It reported "the condition of the three mice will not be determined until a representative of the air force ballistic missile division and of the school of aviation medicine opens the life cell, which contains a stored oxygen system."

The representatives were aboard the recovery ship, but there was no indication how long it would

Tiny Space Travelers Alive, Good Condition

CAPE CANAVERAL, FLA. (AP) — Three mice named Sally, Amy and Moe rocketed 700 miles into space today and were recovered alive and in good condition from the South Atlantic, 5,000 miles away.

Black Mice

The black mice made the radiation ride in a miniature model of a man-in-space cabin. The experiment, which took the small travelers into the dangerous Van Allen Radiation Belt at speeds up to 18,000 miles an hour, was another step toward manned space travel.

The 12-foot tall cone also carried a group of radiation study instruments.

The Atlas roared away from this test center at 4:35 a.m. (EST). The cone plunked on far the 25 minutes later and within 20 minutes was sighted by the coastal crusader, a veteran recovery ship on the Atlantic missile range. At the same time two Air Force JC45 aircraft picked up radio signals sent from the cone.

The ship pulled alongside the cone at 5:32 a.m. Skindivers attached cables to the heavy package, which was kept aloft by a balloon-like device that popped.

Elderly Man Burns To Death After His Clothes Catch Fire

SAUK CITY (AP) — A 78-year-old man burned to death Wednesday when his clothing caught fire, apparently from a lit cigarette in his pocket.

The victim, Edward Schluchter, was walking to his farm home on the outskirts of Sauk City when his clothing ignited. He rolled in the grass alongside the highway in an effort to extinguish the flames. His plight was discovered by Mrs. Wallace Machreiner, who lived nearby. She summoned help but Schluchter was dead when the fire was extinguished by stockyard workers who poured water on him.

Sheriff Mike Spencer of Sauk County said the elderly man was in the habit of snuffing out his cigarette when it was half smoked and putting it into his pocket.

Jingo Gives Look Inside Show Business

It is a national trait for Americans to be as interested in the personalities of show business as in the shows and movies in which they appear. The Post-Crescent's Jingo serves up much information on the great and near-great of show business in each of his columns, along with reports on upcoming movies and TV shows.

You're invited to read tonight's column of commentary, a behind-the-set look at the fascinating world of "Show Biz". It appears on Page C-6.

Firing Squads Kill American, 12 Cubans Convicted of Plot

Question Youth, 14, In Shooting Death of Mother in Indiana

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Police tried to question a 14-year-old boy today in the shooting of his mother, found dead in her home yesterday with four bullet wounds in her body.

As they took John H. Trittinger Jr. from the home after the shooting he screamed, "Tell them I love them both. Tell Dad I'm sorry."

The hysterical boy was placed under sedation at Memorial Hospital, and police were unable to question him last night.

A neighbor reported hearing shots from the home, and police found Mrs. Velenia A. Trittinger, 35, with two bullet wounds in her chest and two in her head.

Executions Take Place Hours After Military Court's Verdict

HAVANA — (AP) — A young American adventurer and 12 Cubans were executed today for plotting to overthrow Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The American, first to be executed by the Castro regime, was Anthony Zarba of Somerville, Mass. He went before a firing squad in Santiago with seven Cuban companions. Havana radio stations reported five other Cubans were executed in Santa Clara.

A neighbor reported hearing shots from the home, and police found Mrs. Velenia A. Trittinger, 35, with two bullet wounds in her chest and two in her head.

The valve, a ball of silicon rubber enclosed in a plastic cage with an outer margin of cloth material, replaced Amundson's own heart mitral valve.

Candidates in Third Great Debate Tonight

Nixon, Kennedy Will be Continent Apart for Talks

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy clash again tonight — a continent apart — in their third television-radio debate on presidential campaign issues.

The split-screen, hour-long trans-continental show, starting at 6:30 P. M. Eastern Standard Time, will find the GOP standard bearer, Nixon, in an American broadcast studio and the Democratic aspirant, Kennedy, in an ABC studio in New York City.

On TV, the program will be shown at later hours in more distant time zones. However, radio station networks all will carry the debate at the same time.

Identical Settings

The candidates will appear in identical TV studio settings. A combination podium and desk will allow each man to stand or sit as he chooses. Studio lighting will be duplicated at each end of the network, and both candidates have been asked to wear the same shade of attire.

ABC, assigning more than 20 technicians to the program, calls this "the most complicated telecast in TV history."

In the two previous debates the candidates have faced each other in the same studio. The first was handled by CBS from Chicago, and the second by NBC in Washington.

Campaign tours prevent them from debating face-to-face this time.

The moderator will be ABC news commentator Bill Shadel. Members of the panel will be Roscoe Drummond, New York Herald Tribune; Douglas S. Cater, "Reporter" magazine; Charles

Demands U. S. Apology; U.N. Accepts Red Proposal For Debate on Colonialism

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev today denounced U. S. spy plane flights as actually a step beyond the brink of war. He demanded a U. S. apology before the General Assembly.

Khrushchev's demand came immediately after the General Assembly set the stage for a full debate on colonialism by accepting unanimously a Soviet resolution on freeing all colonial areas. It was certain, however, that this meant countries under Soviet domination also would be discussed.

Khrushchev, demanding an apology for incidents like the U-2 spy plane flight of last May, said if the U. S. government "will not condemn the practice of sending its spy planes to the Soviet Union and other countries, the United Nations should in all strictness condemn such aggressive actions on the part of one of the biggest powers against other countries."

Such acts, he said, could have the "most grave consequences for world peace."

Brink of War

"Such a policy of the U. S.," said Khrushchev, "should be condemned and stopped so that such provocative incidents would not lead the world to the brink of war. The American aggressive actions are actually a step beyond the 'brink'."

Khrushchev spoke calmly, from a prepared text.

His address came after the assembly's proposal for discussion of immediate freedom for colonial and dependent areas, adopting it by action.

Police Find Girl, 17, in Dryer—for Fun

Police today are undecided whether to charge five teenagers with drying too fast for conditions or operating a dryer without a license.

An anonymous citizen called police about 11 p.m. Wednesday to report something strange at the Lauderite Shop, 813 W. College Ave.

Police found a 17-year-old girl in one of the large dryers. Her companions inserted coins, and she tumbled.

The capacity of the dryer is 37 pounds. The young lady weighed more.

It is not known if the dryer was damaged. It went around all right, the teenagers reported.

Police finally decided after considerable questioning that a pair of 17-year-old boys discovered the new sport, then the three girls, two 17 and one 16, joined the party.

Police were at a loss to explain how, why, what or where. The teenagers said it was great.

Push Search for Missing Flier

HONOLULU (AP) — Scaplanes from Midway, Kwajalein and Wake joined in the search today for a North Dakota long-distance flier who crashed into the Pacific three miles north of Wake Island.

Lt. Duane Stirling, 27, and Capt. Charles Finnegan, 30, Air National Guardsmen from Fargo, were attempting to fly non-stop in separate planes, from Oakland, Calif., to Manila. They were 14 miles past Wake Wednesday night when Stirling ran into trouble and was unable to gain altitude.

They turned back toward Wake but Stirling's red, white and blue Mooney Mark 20 crashed into the sea. Finnegan landed at Wake. The men had been flying 30 hours.

Wake on the other side of the International Dateline is 17 hours ahead of eastern standard time. Stirling crashed at 9:24 p.m. Wednesday, Wake time.

Specter of Violence

17,000 Jap Students Demonstrate In Mourning for Assassinated Idol

TOKYO (AP) — A flag-waving yesterday, was kept within at a political meeting before hundreds including himself. Its mood appeared to be one of sorrow rather than deep anger.

As Ikeda spoke, more than 15,000 left-wing students and laborers, who regarded the stocky, day had denounced the use of violence and warned he would act against it whether it came from the right or the left.

In his first public statement since a 17-year-old right-wing fanatic stabbed the 61-year-old Asanuma yesterday, Ikeda said that violence from either left or right imperils Japanese democracy.

Ikeda accepted the resignation of the nation's top police official, Iwao Yamazaki, and declared: "I am resolved to assume overall leadership of politics so that the trend toward spiritual collapse in Japan can be halted."

He said the killing of Asanuma, against rightwing terrorism.

Berra Homers In Sixth Inning For 5-4 Lead

Yankee Star Jolts Three-Run Blast Off Elroy Face

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Yogi Berra's 3-run homer off relief ace Elroy Face climaxed a four-run rally in the sixth inning and gave the New York Yankees a 5-4 lead over the Pittsburgh Pirates after six innings of the seventh and final game of the World Series.

Face, who had saved the Pirates' three victories, relieved two-game winner Vernon Law after leadoff batter Bobby Richardson had singled and Tony Kubek walked in the sixth. The Pirates were leading 4-1 at the time.

The little right-hander got Roger Maris on a foul near third and Pirate fans started breathing easier. But Mickey Mantle rolled a single through the box, scoring Richardson and sending Kubek to third.

Berra then walloped his first homer of the current series, scoring Kubek and Mantle ahead of him and putting the Yanks in front for the first time in the game. Berra's drive barely hugged the foul pole.

Only 3 Hits

Through five innings Law had been reached for only three hits. The Yankees went down in order in the first. In the Pittsburgh half of the frame, Bill Virdon flied to Yogi Berra. Tony Kubek caught Dick Groat's high popout. Bob Skinner walked. Rocky Nelson hit a home run into the lower

Norstad Speech Interrupted by Jeering Crowd

COVENTRY, England (AP) — A speech by U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO's supreme commander in Europe, was delayed for 45 minutes last night by a crowd of shouting jeering opponents of nuclear armament.

Norstad stood bleakly on the platform in silence while Lord Mayor Harry Stanley and a Methodist minister vainly appealed for order. The general finally began his 10-minute speech with the demonstrators still shouting and stamping, some of them singing "Rule Britannia" and others crying "Send Him Home."

The din finally died down after Norstad raised his voice and reminded the audience that the English people "are the source and fountainhead of many of the freedoms we enjoy, including the freedom of speech."

But he still was interrupted by occasional shouts as he described the operations of the North Atlantic Alliance.

Candidates Ready For Third Debate

Nixon, Kennedy Embroiled Over Island Issue and May Air All Asian Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy prepare for their third television debate tonight embroiled in an argument over two Asian islands.

The argument has become so intense that Nixon, the Republican candidate for president, is reviving his party's old slogan that the Democratic party is the party of war, and Kennedy, the Democratic candidate, is accusing Nixon of inviting war.

The whole issue of the islands — Quemoy and Matsu — and, in fact, the whole range of America's Asian policy probably will be aired in the debate tonight.

The debate will differ from the first two, for Kennedy and Nixon will not face each other in the same studio. Kennedy will speak from New York and Nixon from Los Angeles. A split television screen will bring them together for the viewer.

Not Worth War

The controversy over Quemoy and Matsu emerged from the television debate in Washington last week.

Lodge Wants Negro as Part of Cabinet

GOP Vice President Hopeful Makes Stand In Harlem Speech

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge told a street rally in Harlem last night that the Republican party favors appointment of a Negro in the president's cabinet.

The GOP vice presidential candidate outlined this civil rights program:

1. "There should be a Negro in the cabinet."
2. "There should be greater use of Negroes in the foreign service from the rank of ambassador down."

Actress Shirley Temple Gets a welcoming handshake from Vice President Richard Nixon as the two get together for a brief chat at NBC studios in Burbank, Calif. The vice president was at the studios to tape some television interviews. Miss Temple left directors and actors waiting while she visited with Nixon. She assured him she was making many phone calls urging people to give him their support.

The Republican party organization strength in metropolitan Milwaukee has sagged dangerously in recent years, and more than the usual number of local and legislative offices were forfeited in Milwaukee county this year.

Big Rally

Sen. Kennedy has one full day of Wisconsin campaigning, but the proposal is being considered, according to the latest word here. He will start the long day of work Oct. 23 with a rally at the Brown County Arena Sunday.

Republican State Chairman Claude J. Jasper has publicly promised to make it into one of the largest political rallies in the intensity of the campaign these years.

Nixon thus far in the campaign has touched Wisconsin ground briefly, with stops at LaCrosse, Milwaukee and Beloit, in two delectable tours from other trips.

THYROID TROUBLE CAUSED BY INJURY

Writing on "Incipient Hypothyroidism" in "The Prescriber," Dorothea M. Tudor, M.B.B.S. says:

"Shock from trauma frequently causes thyroid dysfunction of the deficiency type, and an accident during school age, when the nervous and the endocrine systems are particularly unstable, is particularly likely to be followed by such a complication."

Chiropractors have long recognized the traumatic factor in the cause of glandular disorders. What Miss Tudor lacks to make her explanation clear is the fact that the injury is responsible for vertebral displacements which interrupt the innervation (nerve supply) of the glands involved. ## Congo's Army Chief Won't Attack U.N. Over Lumumba's Fate

Mobutu Pulls Rug From Under Technicians Who Promised Fight

LEOPOLDVILLE. The Congo conferred with him for about two hours.

Mobutu told newsmen: "I never did want to make war on the U.N. over Lumumba and since I am head of the army it is I who would decide on such a thing."

"But certainly I was opposed to Lumumba's leaving his residence Sunday night to tour the city and denounce me in front of my soldiers. That I cannot tolerate."

Mobutu said he and not President Joseph Kasavubu swore out the warrant for Lumumba's arrest.

"Kasavubu and the other politicians were neutralized by me Sept. 14. And it was not up to me to order Lumumba arrested."

Mobutu said the arrest warrant remains valid but that he will not use it unless Lumumba steps past his U.N. guards and goes picketing again.

While Mobutu's announcement appeared to be a victory for the United Nations, the Congo political scene remained seriously clouded. The provisional government, with which the United Nations has been working with some success, now finds itself in an embarrassing position and clearly uncertain of Mobutu's support.

Johnson Heads Across Florida In Campaign

Democrat Feels Encouraged He Will Win State

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, buoyed by public display of support from two key Florida political figures, headed across north Florida today on a whistle-stop tour through the traditionally Democratic Florida panhandle.

Johnson, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, said he felt encouraged over prospects of taking Florida's 10 electoral votes despite earlier claims by the Republicans that the state was in the bag for them.

Turning Point

State campaign aides for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket said they felt that yesterday was the turning point in the campaign in Florida since it marked the first time that most Democratic officeholders had joined in a public display of their support.

Johnson left his special train at Jacksonville while he made a flying trip down the peninsula to hit key areas at Gainesville, Orlando, Tampa and Miami.

At Orlando, U.S. Sen. Spessard L. Holland and Governor-Nominee Farris Bryant, who have kept out of the campaign thus far because they considered the national platform ominous, sat with Johnson at a luncheon rally attended by about 1,200.

Made 8 Speeches

Johnson made eight speeches yesterday. At each stop he declared the Democrats were neither socialists nor spendthrifts but that he and Sen. John Kennedy, the Democratic presidential candidate, were better friends of the area and could work more closely with the state's Democratic congressmen and senators.

Johnson charged Republican candidate Richard Nixon with practicing discrimination against the South by raising questions in the North about a southerner becoming the Democratic ticket.

This is what happened: Later Rita gave Scotland Yard a description of the rodent handits, and the cops picked up John Patrick Hanlon and Henry James in a small shop in the London suburbs. Two young men entered. They pleaded guilty. The judge sent them to a reform school, saying: "Without a word, the youth placing the bag on the counter, opened them in prison."

Catholics Try to Cut School Waste

Squeezing 12 Years Into 10 May Ease Cost, Enrollment Problems

BY G. K. HODENFIELD
WASHINGTON (AP) — Roman Catholics, and the supply of new teachers, are looking for ways to cut the traditional 12-year elementary and secondary school program to 10 years.

The 12-man programs and plans committee of the National Catholic Education Association meeting here this week took a long, hard look at the ways by which even more water may be squeezed out of what is generally a very basic program of academic subjects.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Frederick G. Hochwalt, executive secretary of the NCEA, said, "We know it is possible for many students to do in 10 years what they now get in 12, although that isn't necessarily true for all of them."

Try New Techniques
"We are looking into new classroom techniques — teaching machines, non-graded primaries, and educational television — as well as the idea of longer school days and school years. We have known for a long time that all the schools, both public and private, waste too much time. The traditional three-month summer vacation isn't realistic, based as it is on the idea that children must be free in the summer to help their parents on the farm."

Madison — A University of Wisconsin livestock marketing specialist reported Tuesday that feeder cattle prices in the state have followed the national trend in dropping off in price as much as $5 a hundred from last fall's level.

Robert Reiersen said that prices were off from $3.50 to $5 at sales conducted by the Central Wisconsin Beef Producers Association at Friendship and the Southwest Wisconsin Beef Producers Cooperative at Belmont.

Prices of good grade yearling steers averaged about $22.50 per hundred, Reiersen said.

Lawrence Says
Democrats
Now Exploiting
Religious Issue

Rebroadcast of Kennedy's Houston
Speech Significant

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Who is "exploiting" the so-called religious issue now? The Democratic National Committee and some labor-union organizations are spending thousands of dollars to rebroadcast, over various television stations, the speech made by Sen. Kennedy a month ago at

Lawrence Houston, Texas, before a Protestant Ministers Association.

Monday night it was shown over the National Broadcasting Co. station here covering the national capital and near-by points in Virginia and Maryland.

This was the speech in which the Massachusetts senator said that, if he were elected President and his office ever required him "to either violate my conscience or violate the national interest," he would resign the presidency.

Mr. Kennedy declared that he was opposed to diplomatic relations with the Vatican and "un-constitutional aid" to parochial schools in the United States.

In the current campaign, Henry Cabot Lodge, the Republican vice presidential nominee, has announced that he favors federal aid to parochial schools in the form of money for textbooks and bus transportation, which is something that Sen. Kennedy opposes. Does all this mean that a Protestant in the White House would do more for Catholic causes than a Catholic who is President?

Political Advantage

It has been widely reported that the so-called religious issue is being talked about a good deal in the South but is less of a factor in the North. Yet, of the stations selected for the paid broadcast, most of those chosen are in the North. This has brought up the question as to whether there now is a campaign effort to keep the issue alive and to take advantage of the natural resentment many Catholics feel when the so-called religious issue is raised.

The Kennedy forces have been criticized hitherto for allegedly using the issue to prove that a Catholic can gain votes by it. At the 1956 national convention of the Democratic party when the Massachusetts senator came within a few votes of winning the vice-presidential nomination — there had been circulated among the delegates a staff memorandum prepared by the Kennedy managers claiming that the nomination of a Catholic would be politically a distinct advantage to the party. This memorandum gave statistical details of voting strength in several areas where there is a large number of Catholics in the population.

Sen. Kennedy himself has said a number of times in the current campaign that he doesn't want anyone to vote for him because of his religion.

Nixon Penalized?

There is an understandable resentment, however, over the raising of the so-called religious issue. Sen. Kennedy, in the prepared statement which he read at the opening of his Houston speech, declared that "If this election is decided on the basis that 40 million Americans lost their chance of being President on the day they were baptized, then it is the whole nation that will be the loser, in the eyes of Catholics and non-Catholics around the world, in the eyes of history, and in the eyes of our own people."

Many voters will become emotional about such a contingency and feel inclined to vote for a Catholic just to show their disapproval.

How can all this be answered by the Republican nominee for the presidency, who may lose votes through such a repeated emphasis on the so-called religious issue? Is Vice President Nixon now to be penalized by those voters who, disregarding all other issues, will vote for a presidential nominee just because he is a Catholic?

Vice President Nixon has tried hard to squelch discussion of religion in politics, and has instructed his aides to refrain from promoting the issue in any way. But during the period of this self-imposed ban, his rival and others in the Kennedy camp have repeatedly talked about the issue, and now the Democratic national committee has put on television stations again the speech and colloquy at the Houston meeting a month after the newspapers far and wide printed the things he said in that speech.

Revising Wisconsin's Constitution

Although the public generally has shown little interest in modifying Wisconsin's constitutional provision requiring town and county governments to be as nearly uniform as practicable, there is, nevertheless, a continuing pressure that something be done about this rule which lays a heavy handicap on the municipalities in the more populous counties.

Gov. Nelson recently established a commission on constitutional revision which has been looking into the general problem suggested by the commission's title. Recently the commission heard from some of its subcommittees on proposed changes. A group headed by Atty. Gen. John Reynolds suggested changes to require 4-year terms for state constitutional officers and a cabinet form of state government.

The committee, headed by Irvin B. Charne of Shorewood, proposed changes relating to local government. As usual, the first proposal was the change in the requirement of uniformity in town and county government and a proposal to permit some form of home rule for counties.

It was suggested also that the counties be granted discretionary authority in the appointment or election of county officers except sheriff and district attorney which would remain elective.

These proposals are not new. They have been up time and again but there has been no surging statewide demand so they have been permitted to fail for lack of legislative action. Right now, however, the constitutional revision commission is taking a general look at all sections of the constitution and it proposes to receive the recommendations from all nine of its subcommittees. Recommendations will be examined and classified as either urgent, important, or minor and later, after more thorough study, the commission may recommend constitutional changes be made either through a constitutional convention or brought about through separate amendments.

There is little likelihood that Wisconsin will undertake major revision of its constitution in the near future. Nevertheless, it is quite obvious that some changes will be needed soon if we are to maintain anything like a truly representative form of government with respect to counties and municipalities. Some day the change will come because the rapidly increasing congestion in a few of the counties along the eastern and southeastern boundaries will bring about injustices which cannot be endured. When that time comes the change will be demanded and it will be helpful to have such a study as now is being made for guidance.

The Shorter Tax Form

Gov. Nelson's pointed announcement that if he is reelected he will urge the legislature to authorize a new and shorter state income tax form for the convenience of three out of four Wisconsin earners subject to the state income tax is significant for two reasons.

First, anything that makes the annual income tax assessment chore a less forbidding and complicated matter for the majority of earners who have standard deductions and incomes derived from a single source is a welcome development. Probably the tax department should have devised this a long time ago.

Second, the governor's pledge to try to enact this new and shorter form into law appears to suggest that he has abandoned his insistence upon a payroll withholding form of state income tax administration, which also is a good thing, as we see it.

Surely if the governor is reelected he will expect to return with him a majority of the members of the legislature on his ticket. And if he gets such a majority, and continues to adhere to the idea that the employer should be responsible for the collection of the income taxes of his employees, there would be no need for the reformation of the standard deduction or short form of the income tax assessment blank.

The governor suggests that the tax department can work out a form for all income earners in brackets of less than $8,000, who get their taxable income from a single source, which will be only eight by three inches in size or the punch card dimension. While we wonder why the tax department specialists didn't think of this many years ago, we join with those who are grateful that they have finally done so. Paying taxes in these times is painful enough, without the irritants of the incomprehensible paper requirements so dear to the civil service mind.

Louisiana Punishes Children

Louisiana, which has practically made a science out of getting federal money for public assistance programs, suddenly has decided that it will not contribute support to homes where there are illegitimate children. This appears to say that Louisiana is willing to punish children for the wrongdoings of their mothers. It is such a brutal stand, in the opinion of many people, that it has aroused opposition in many areas. Even in England a food lift has been proposed to assist the "starving" children of Louisiana. Under the state law, Louisiana dropped some 22,000 children from the federal-state aid program. The law proposes to cut off the support of women who continue to bear illegitimate children while on public welfare.

The Social Security Administration had warned earlier that enforcement of such legislation might result in loss of the full 60 per cent federal contribution to dependent children's programs.

William L. Mitchell, Social Security commissioner, has called Louisiana welfare officials to Washington for a hearing Oct. 25. He wants to know whether the state plan conforms to federal requirement indicating it may not if administered in such a way as to result in the sudden termination of one-fourth of the cases. He will ask whether an opportunity was given for a fair hearing to the persons cut off from aid. Also, he raises the question as to whether the recipients cut off have been denied assistance without proper termination of eligibility. He wants to know whether the state requirement ending aid is designed to assure children living in unsuitable homes will not receive aid or whether it is designed to deprive needy children of aid solely because of the conduct of the mother the state has found to be offensive.

The late Gov. Earl Long who made a successful political career in Louisiana by getting federal aid in large quantities would probably have pointed out that there could be no political advantage in cutting anyone off of aid paid for largely by the federal government. During the last year of his term in office, it was estimated that the United States government had contributed $170,000,000 to Louisiana in various forms of aid. Furthermore, it was confidently expected that the following year would bring the total to $200,000,000. Out of every 1,000 Louisiana citizens over 65 years of age, 577 were drawing old age assistance checks. This ratio was unmatched by any other state in the union. The national average is 159 persons per 1,000 over 65. Louisiana's total public assistance program in 1959 was $156,999,508. Of this the federal government paid $91,281,742 in matching funds.

It is strange indeed that the lawmakers of such a state would suggest the reduction of aid to illegitimate children. But they have done so, perhaps in the hope of reducing the number of illegitimate births in the state. Most people will consider such an attempt futile.

It is interesting to note, however, that the very method which the Social Security Administration appears to condemn in Louisiana is the same method that they propose to employ in an effort to coerce Louisiana to change its mind. That is the reduction of assistance benefits. One wonders what will become of the children in Louisiana if the federal government cuts off its full 60 per cent contribution.

What So Proudly We Haired -

The encouragement to the crowd to sing the words to the Star Spangled Banner while the band plays and the flag goes up before the Packer games is a healthy effort at participation. We are inclined to be overly hesitant about any signs of patriotic enthusiasm.

But should the crowd have to be told on what page of the program the words are found? Have so many of us really neglected to learn or to remember the first verse of our national anthem?

Experiment Could Alter Way of Life

From The Nashville Banner

A little-heralded undertaking in Freeport, Tex., could literally change the face of the nation. If it proves successful—and there are reasons to believe it will—its consequences could be as explosive as an H-bomb.

The government is breaking ground for its first saline water conversion demonstration plant.

Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton notes that present conversion plants operate at a cost of $2 a thousand gallons. This one, he says, should reduce the cost to a dollar or less.

And he believes the time is coming when the cost can be cut to 50 cents, which is only a little more than water from most city taps.

Extending the dream, water could be piped into the arid sections of this land. There would again be mass immigration, rivalling our pioneer day conquests of the west.

This is a reading into the future, but in the light of this development, plenty of water for everyone appears to be within reach.

True Personalities Will Determine Winner

From The Concrete (Wash.) Herald

True personalities are bound to emerge soon in the political campaign battles. It is one thing to wear a planned appearance in the beginning, but a painted-on smile can fade pretty fast when the nerves get ragged. Hard work may win campaigns, but that same hard work brings out what's inside the man. That is what the voters will measure by.

Macmillan Earns Drink After Khrushchev's Actions at U.N.

From The Chicago Tribune

Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain delivered an able and sharp pointed speech at the United Nations which in both respects was in marked contrast to most of the gabble heard there in the last two weeks. Yet it was no surprise that at the conclusion the prime minister felt impelled to hasten to the bar for a stimulant.

Mr. Macmillan's long experience with heckling in the house of commons and on the hustings has inured him to almost anything, but he had not come prepared for the unbelievable display of bad manners by Nikita Khrushchev of the Soviet Union. In Paris, last May, when Khrushchev scuttled the summit conference to the accompaniment of a drumfire of billingsgate against the American President, Mr. Macmillan had seen the capacity of the soviet premier for staged tantrums. But it is to be doubted that the prime minister had conceived that Khrushchev was willing to make a holy show of himself before the representatives of 98 nations.

Five times in the course of Macmillan's address Khrushchev interrupted him by pounding both fists on the table, muttering, and yelling from his place to drown out the prime minister. The contrast between the urbane Briton and the communist boor could not have been lost on the assembled statesmen, who goggled at the peasant czar. But, unfortunately, the world is not governed by good manners, and Khrushchev's own behavior is no more rude and insufferable than the routine behavior of his government.

Sharp Digs

In fact, it was a tribute to the sharpness of Macmillan's digs that Khrushchev was reduced to bellowing like a wounded bull. The prime minister characterized Khrushchev's own statements about colonialism as "a complete distortion," adding that his slogans were out of date. The diatribes of Khrushchev about West Germany were dismissed as "reactionary and backward looking."

Noting that the spokesmen of soviet satellite governments never tired of accusing West Germany of being animated by a spirit of revenge, Macmillan quietly observed that their own speeches hardly overflowed with the spirit of reconciliation.

He touched a raw soviet nerve when he asked how it happened, if communist East Germany was a paradise and West Germany "a capitalist hell" that 2½ million East Germans had fled to the West. And he scored again when, in addressing himself to Khrushchev's contention that all colonial territories should have the right to self-determination, he suggested that soviet authorities "would do better to explain why they have consistently refused this right to the people of East Germany."

When he dealt with Khrushchev's complaints that the west insisted on frustrating soviet hopes for disarmament and peace by continuing to arm itself, Prime Minister Macmillan referred to the proverb of the pot calling the kettle black. He said that trust and integrity, manifested in purpose and in practice, and not mere words, were indispensable preconditions to agreement, and that faith "cannot grow on its own."

"There were home truths and they were shot to the mark with such accuracy that Khrushchev was reduced to choleric bellowing. Mr. Macmillan deserved his drink, and we would be willing to stand him another for his reflective and another poetic statement that, during their short sojourn on earth, the ultimate concern of all men are "the relations between man and man, and between man and God."

In the spiteful climate of world affairs, these elementary thoughts receive scant attention, and it is well that at least one statesman is still capable of remembering them.

Nehru, Nasser Do U.N. Service In Backing Dag

From The Long Island (Garden City) Newsday

Nehru and Nasser have done the UN a great service by refusing to join Khrushchev's "dump Hammarskjöld" campaign. To oust or render helpless the secretary general would simply lead, in time, to the wrecking of the U.N. That last, best hope, as these two uncommitted statesmen recognize, has to take precedence over personal pique, power politics, and plain, downright bullying.

Looking Backward

Rise of Republicanism Explained

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Oct. 13, 1860.

Henry Clay gave a very clear exposition of the progress of that anti-slavery party now known as the Black Republican.

It first began by appealing to the humanity and the enlightenment of the understanding of the slavehold portion of the Union. "For some time," he says, "they continued to make these appeals to our duty and to our interests, but, impatient with the slow influence of their logic upon our stupid minds, they resolved to change their mode of action."

"For the agency of their powers of persuasion they now propose to substitute the powers of the ballot box; and he must be blind to what is passing before us who does not perceive that the inevitable tendency of their proceedings is, if these should be found insufficient, to invoke finally the more potent powers of the bayonet.

Some 50 nations in the assembly of the League of Nations gave final approval to penalties against Mussolini's fascist government for its war against Ethiopia. The assembly took action toward invoking the penalties swiftly.

United States deputy marshals were assigned to guard every bridge on the Chicago and North Western railroad lines through the Chicago milk shed area where a producers' strike was in effect. There were about twenty-five such bridges.

The Outagamie county agriculture committee, with R. C. Swanson, agricultural adjustment agent, visited quarries in the county to make further plans for the operation of a WPA lime fertilizer project.

Both Parties Dodging Property Tax Issue

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—The most hackneyed and tiresome refrain in Wisconsin politics is the assertion that real and personal property taxes are too high and cannot be permitted to go higher.

The most obvious thing about politics in Wisconsin is that local real and personal property taxes will rise still higher, because none of the aspirants to leadership in the state government which can reverse the problem has shown any real willingness to get at the job of relieving them or stabilizing them.

Illustrative are the two essays in the current information organ of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, submitted upon invitation of the League by the two political party nominees for the governorship in next fall's elections.

They sing again the old chorus about the perils of local property tax excesses, recite the perfectly obvious evidence that the crisis is going to deepen, create the impression that if the voters make the right choice next month the state will provide a solution, but suggest nothing very tangible about how this great and good deed will be achieved.

Thus they stand in about the same non-committal position as have their parties and their predecessor nominees for as many years back as this observer can remember.

BUSINESS COUNCIL

All of these things have been known for a long time. They have been recited ad infinitum by one prestigious research group after another over the years. Not long ago another research organization, one packing a considerable punch because it represents some of the principal business leaders of the state in collaboration with the staff of the University of Wisconsin School of Commerce, spot-lighted the facts about property taxation once again.

Its voluminous report was brushed off in a paragraph or two by the news services, doubtless because such findings are becoming routine.

Yet it may be worth while to repeat them now, while a political campaign is underway and while the aspirants for political leadership have some kind of an obligation to comment upon them specifically and constructively.

It was found that there is need for property tax relief because property taxes in Wisconsin are high by either historical or interstate standards, that the level is approaching the unnatural heights of the depression period, that the average by various measures ranges substantially above either regional or national levels, that the problem is most oppressive in those regions where the tax base is most slender, and that Wisconsin relies upon property taxes to a considerably greater degree than does the country as a whole.

WHAT NOW?

What of it? It requires no special intellectual powers to know that the only cure for the problem is through state action.

The costs of local government are not going to be reduced. Indeed, there is every sign that the rate of expenditure increase will be accelerated. Only through the enactment of a new basic tax, or the use of existing state taxes in heavily increased rates, can there be a stabilization of local tax rates—not to mention an over-all reduction of the rates in the state.

These are things known to the most casual student of public finance in Wisconsin, to the least attentive follower of the news of Wisconsin public affairs.

Most persons could make a quick guess also about the solution that will be chosen, when the state is ready. There is yet nothing to show, however, that the state is ready, surely not in the platforms of the political parties or the timid interpretations of any of their candidates.

There will be more moaning about the property tax, and a higher rate of property taxation, before the political inertia that surrounds the matter will be resolved.

Jane Addams Had Many Interests

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I was pleased to see that the Post-Crescent took note last night of Gov. Nelson's proclamation of Jane Addams week. To many of us engaged as volunteers or professionals in various types of humanitarian work, she has been an inspiration through the years.

When I was a freshman in college, a friend took me to Hull House and Miss Addams happened to be talking to someone near the entrance. I recognized her at once from her pictures, and trembling with emotion, I went up to her and asked if I might shake her hand. She granted me this favor rather reluctantly. I felt, no doubt, thinking that I was just a curious sight-seer, and I've always regretted that I did not know at the time what my parents told me later, that she knew them personally, having visited their folk-school in Bulgaria on one of her trips abroad. After her death my mother and I spent an evening at Hull House, joining the staff in their evening prayers at the invitation of a member who had been a missionary in Bulgaria.

It might interest your readers to know that Jane Addams not only influenced welfare legislation and started the modern era of social work, but that she was an author, a friend of great thinkers like the philosopher, John Dewey and the psychologist, William James; a politician, (she seconded Teddy Roosevelt's nomination in the 1912 Progressive Party campaign), and a "peace-monger".

She worked for food conservation and famine relief after the U. S. Food Administration was organized in World War I, for she felt that bread and peace were inseparable. From her circle at Hull House came Julia C. Lathrop, first head of the U. S. Children's Bureau, Florence Kelley, founder of the National Consumers' League, and Dr. Alice Hamilton, first woman member of Harvard Medical School faculty. But she will always be best remembered as the founder of Hull House and of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

of Cuba with a small party of invaders last week, was the first U.S. citizen to die before a Castro firing squad. Another American, Alan Robert Nye of Whiting, Ind., was given a death sentence last year for plotting to kill Castro, but the sentence was suspended and he was expelled from the country.

U.S. Asked Stay
The U.S. embassy appealed to Castro's government last night for a stay of execution and clemency for Zarba, but this apparently was ignored.

The execution site for Zarba and his companions was a firing range in San Juan valley, in the shadow of San Juan Hill where Theodore Roosevelt and his Rough Riders made their historic charge.

Another American, Richard Pecoraro of Staten Island, N.Y., was reported among 167 defendants in the Santa Clara mass trial sentenced to prison terms ranging from 20 to 30 years. The military tribunal sentenced two women in that trial to 15 years.

The 174 defendants in Santa Clara were captured during a weekend roundup of guerrillas operating against Castro's forces in the Escambray mountains of south central Cuba.

Newsman Detained
Catholic youth organizations and women attempted to organize an anti-execution demonstration at one of Santa Clara's churches yesterday, but a mob sent the firing squads had cut down Zarba and 12 Cubans. At Burlington, Mass., Zarba was described by a brother, Salvatore, as "a happy go lucky guy who liked excitement."

Two American newsmen, Robert Berzel of the Associated Press and Wilson Hall of NBC, were detained by army intelligence agents as they watched the incident. They were held about three hours, then released without charges.

Four Russians were the only foreign newsmen admitted to the Santa Clara trial.

Zarba told the court during his one-day trial here that he was a member of the boat crew that landed the invaders. He said he was sorry he took part and that he tried to leave the expedition in the Bahamas. He said the party sailed from Miami, Fla., where he has a wife and child.

Altogether, 23 persons were tried here on charges of counter-revolutionary activity. Two were acquitted, 16 were sentenced to 30 years imprisonment and two women were given terms of 10 and 15 years.

In Miami, a sister of Zarba telephoned the Associated Press to ask how to get his body.

"I just don't know what to do," she sobbed. "I'll go to Havana."

Earlier, when a newsmen called Mrs. McCrackin after receiving news of her brother's execution, she broke down and asked to be excused from making any comment.

Dennis McCrackin, brother-in-law of Zarba, said last night he didn't believe the Cubans would carry out the death sentence in connection with an alleged invasion plot against Castro. He said he would ask the U. S. State Department for aid.

A few hours later came the stations wishing to carry it.

of the cone and inflated. The delicate job of hoisting the cone aboard was completed at 8:08 a.m. The cone was reported in good condition.

Several Hours
If the mice are retrieved alive, they will be the first animals brought back from this far in space.

Word on whether Sally, Amy and Moe survived the jarring journey is not expected until the cone is recovered and opened. This operation could take several hours.

The Air Force emphasized the main purposes of the flight were to test the new cone and general performance of the Convair-made missile. The mice and other experiments were placed aboard because there was extra room in the area of the cone which in wartime would be occupied by a nuclear warhead.

This was the third test for the cone, designated RVN-2A. The previous two sank after successful Atlas flights because of failure of recovery gear.

12 Weeks Old
All three mice are 12 weeks old. As the names indicate, two are female, one male. They rode in separate compartments in a 16-inch long, 6-inch diameter cylinder which was airtight to give the mice a self-contained, sealed environment.

Their initials—SAM—stand for the School of Aviation Medicine at Brooks Air Force Base, Tex. The school, which is conducting extensive research on biomedical problems or space flight, also provided monkeys Sam and Miss Sam for rocket flights several months ago.

Dr. H. C. Gammann, the school's director of space medicine, described the mouse-carrying cylinder as "a small forerunner of a model of a man-in-space capsule." It was half filled with oxygen containers and electronic devices to simulate an earth-like environment which may be necessary for manned space travel.

Calls Spy Flights Beyond War Brink

climation after the United States supported it.

Unveiling U.S. strategy, Delegate Francis O. Wilcox suddenly announced the U.S. support, taking some of the steam from the Soviet proposition.

U.S. Delegate James J. Wadsworth replied at once to Khrushchev's accusations of American aggression through spy plane flights. He denied the flights were aggressive, and quoted President Eisenhower as saying they were part of an effort to guard the free world against surprise attack.

Repeat Accusation
In turn, he repeated the U.S. accusation that the Soviet Union downed an American RB-47 plane over international waters. He said the Soviet Union never attempted to refute this. He opposed the Soviet demand for the full Assembly debate the Russian complaint.

On the colonialism issue, the U.S. had no objections to full assembly discussion.

Premier Khrushchev immediately took the floor to say he welcomed the U.S. decision, but he promptly accused the Americans of plotting to "wiggle out" of any definitive result on the issue.

The U.S. move obviously deprived the Soviet resolution of much of its propaganda steam, by arraying Americans with new African and other underdeveloped countries against the idea of colonialism.

Wilcox announced the stand after one of the Soviet Union's closest supporters in Africa, the President of Guinea, chided the communists for their demonstrations last night which broke up a U.N. discussion of colonialism in wild disorder. Premier Khrushchev had banged a desk with his shoe and had referred to a fellow delegate as a "jerk" and "stooge."

Bitter Reply

The man who was called "jerk" and "stooge" made another bitter reply today.

Sen. Lorenzo Sumulong of the Philippines complained that Khrushchev had compared him with a marionette which could be tugged one way or the other, and asked "how would you feel if you were in my place?"

Khrushchev, grinning now, applauded amiably.

Sumulong demanded that Khrushchev's remarks of last night be stricken from the assembly record. He added that when you agree with him (Khrushchev) you are not a bad man but when you disagree you are a stooge.

Khrushchev put his head on the desk and shook with laughter.

It was Khrushchev's shoe-banging demonstration which heated the session in turmoil last night. Today he applauded the Philippines speaker.

Water It Down

Only shortly before, Khrushchev accused the United States of supporting his colonialism proposal in order to water it down.

Khrushchev quickly took the floor under the right of reply and expressed pleasure at the U. S. decision. But he accused the United States of plotting to "wiggle its way out" of the colonial question by seeking later to water the resolution down into something innocuous.

The session began with a spontaneous tribute to President Frederick H. Boland, who abruptly and angrily ended the U.N. session last night. The communists registered another show of derision when Khrushchev led them in thumping the desks.

A wave of applause swept the assembly hall as the assembly president mounted the rostrum to start deliberations interrupted last night amid the wildest scenes in the world body's history.

The session broke up in disorder after a series of communist insults and repeated interruptions, highlighted by the astonishing spectacle of Khrushchev banging his desk with one of his shoes.

The Soviet premier was laughing and grinning as he pounded his desk as Boland appeared. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko followed the premier's lead, also grinning.

Last night's chaos had raised some doubts whether Khrushchev would fly home to Moscow tonight, but he announced he has not changed his plans.

Boland, an Irishman, used a new gavel borrowed from the security council to open the day's session. He broke a gavel last night when he slammed it down to bring the tumultuous session to an abrupt end.

State of Siege Ended By Guatemala Regime

GUATEMALA (AP)—The government Wednesday ended the state of alarm decreed Sept. 11 and the state of siege proclaimed July 19. The emergency rule had been provoked by terrorist outbreaks and street riots. President Miguel Ydigoras said the country now is back to constitutional normality.

Bomb Blast Injures 34 in Subway Station

2 Youths Seen Running From Scene Near Times Square

NEW YORK (AP)—A home-made bomb exploded in a subway station beneath Times Square Wednesday, shattering train windows and knocking over dozens of victims.

At least 34 persons were injured, none seriously. It was the third device to explode in 11 days in the Times Square area.

The explosion and gush of black smoke touched off momentary panic as the bomb went off behind a self-service automatic photo-taking machine near a Times Square-Grand Central Terminal shuttle train which was just loading.

See 2 Youths

The blast, which also destroyed a metal clothing locker, was felt at street level and some windows rattled in adjacent buildings.

Witnesses said they saw two youths, their faces powder-blackened, race from the blast scene. Transit Authority Inspector Patrick J. Coughlin, 49, said he overheard one of the pair say "we got too close, I lost my hat" and the other reply "I lost my hat, too."

Two hats were found near the blast scene.

Two youths picked up for questioning shortly after the explosion were questioned and released.

In both previous bomb explosions, eyewitnesses told of two youths fleeing from the scene. Last Sunday, in Bryant Park adjacent to the Public Library at 42nd street and Fifth Avenue, a bomb went off but no one was injured. The first blast on Sunday Oct. 2, in which seven persons were injured, came from shrubbery in Duffy Square near the northern rim of Times Square.

Dispute Keeps Dublin Without Newspapers

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—Dublin will go without newspapers starting today, because of a wage dispute between printers and employers. A demand for a 31 shillings and 6 pence ($4.50) weekly increase for night workers has been turned down. The union men claim they have been locked out. A labor court awarded the men 10 shillings 6 pence ($1.50) extra, but they refused to accept it.

Pack a Lunch With a Punch for Youngsters At School and Those in Workday World

Thursday, October 13, 1960 Appleton Post-Crescent 81

Flaked Tuna Fish, crushed pineapple, chopped celery and cream cheese are blended to make the filling of these nutritious but delicious sandwiches. Teamed with bananas and fig newton bars, they make a winning combination for any lunchbox or bag.

The Tri-Cornered Meat and vegetable turnovers below are called pasties, long identified with the people of Cornish descent in the Mineral Point area of Wisconsin. In the old days this was a familiar, hearty lunchbox meal of the early miners who came from England more than 100 years ago. Today, pasties are still a specialty of the city in Iowa County that's famous for its Cornish restorations on its quaint Shake Rag St.

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

The daily lunchbox can become a headache to both the youngster or grownup who eats it and the homemaker who has to prepare it. With the day-in and day-out, five-days-a-week urgency to lunchbox meals, too often the food becomes monotonous. The secret of success is in making the food as appealing as it should be nutritious. Instead of following a basic food choice, stick to a basic all-round diet pattern but concentrate on food variety. Send hot soup in a thermos bottle one day... make a daily surprise sweet for meal's end... start a project of collecting sandwich fillings so that every day offers a different one for weeks on end... pack a hearty meat and vegetable pasty or some equivalent main dish on occasion.

What should a packed lunch contain from the nutrition angle? It should include milk, some protein food, fruit or vegetables, enriched or whole grain bread, a teaspoon or two of butter or its equivalent.

A Suggestion That's Wonderful for both lunchbox meals and those served at home is the mixing of canned soups. Variety becomes limitless and it's fun to try... proving every time that two soups can be better than one. Above, cream of mushroom and cream of vegetable soups, one can of each, are mixed with two soup cans full of milk. After the combination is heated, it's ready to pour into a vacuum bottle and packed with a sandwich, apple and perhaps a cookie or two. This particular soup variation is delicious with bacon crackers or cheese tidbits.

Culinary Tricks For Overweights

In nearly every family these again with mustard. Overlap days, there's at least one weight-watcher. If he or she is a lunch-toter, the homemaker has a challenging problem—but one that can be solved if a few culinary tricks are used. For instance, a new whipped butter product on the market has far less calories than regular butter. It tastes just as good and goes a long way in spreading. Cottage cheese makes an excellent high protein binder for sandwich fillings and has a low calorie count. Variety can be achieved by adding chopped parsley or chives, chopped beef or chopped olives (but make the latter sparse because olives have a high calorie count.) Thin-sliced bread instead of thick is a good calorie dodger and open-face sandwiches that take but one slice of bread can become hearty and satisfying lunch foods. Hard, crusty breads and rolls also are a fine choice—they're chevier, take longer to eat and thus seem more satisfying. For bread variety with the fillings that go well with each type, here are a few open-face sandwich recipes.

Rye Sandwich
Spread rye bread lightly with prepared mustard. Add slice of Swiss cheese and then spread

Here are a few recipe suggestions for adding an imaginative touch to mid-day meals away from home.

Fruit Filling Sandwich Spread
1/4 cup dried prunes
1/4 cup dates
1/4 cup figs
1/4 cup orange peel
1/4 cup honey
1 teaspoon candied ginger
Chop fruit and blend with honey. Use between slices of buttered bread.

Honey Date Bars
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup honey
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs
1 1/4 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped dates
1 cup chopped nuts
Confectioners' sugar
Blend shortening, honey and vanilla until creamy. Beat in eggs one at a time. Sift dry ingredients into egg mixture. Blend. Add nuts and dates; stir just enough to distribute evenly. Spread in greased oblong pan. Bake in 350-degree oven until golden brown, 30 to 35 minutes. Cool. Cut into bars and roll in confectioners' sugar. Recipe makes three dozen bars.

Tuna-Pineapple Sandwiches
7 ounces canned tuna, drained and flaked
1/2 cup drained, crushed pineapple
1 cup chopped celery
8-ounce pkg. cream cheese
Blend ingredients together. Store in refrigerator until ready to use. This filling is especially good on rye bread. Recipe makes enough for four to six sandwiches.

Open-Face Sandwiches can give variety to a lunchbox menu. Here, summer sausage, cheese and pimiento olive slices are combined with thick pieces of buttered French bread. Wrapped as soon as they're made in a new clear lunchbox wrap on the market, the sandwiches will be fresh and good at mealtime. The new product also is handy for packaging other foods, such as celery sticks, cupcakes and potato chips.

A Special Surprise such as this Fruited Coconut pudding can brighten a school or work day. It's quickly made from a packaged pudding mix with fresh fruit added to it. For easy totin', pack the dessert in one of those half-pint, wide-mouthed vacuum bottles.

English Pasties
2 1/4 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup shortening
1 teaspoon Tabasco sauce
1/2 cup cold water
1 pound round steak
1/2 pound pork
2 or 3 ounces beef suet
2 cups potatoes, thinly sliced
1/2 cup turnips, thinly sliced
2 teaspoons chopped parsley
1/4 cup minced onion
salt
To make the pastry: Mix flour and salt, then work shortening into flour mixture until it resembles coarse meal. A pastry blender or two knives may be used. Add Tabasco sauce to water; sprinkle over flour mixture. Toss.

be prepared while dough is in the refrigerator. Cut round steak and pork into 1-inch or smaller pieces. Chop suet finely. Peel and slice potatoes and turnips; chop parsley and mince the onion.

Roll chilled dough on lightly floured board very thin as for pie crust. Cut dough into 7-inch squares, using paper pattern if desired. Place pastry squares on large baking sheets. On a diagonal half of each pastry square arrange a layer of beef and pork, then potatoes and turnip. Sprinkle with suet, parsley, onion and salt. Moisten edges of pastry and fold over diagonally to resemble a turnover. Seal edges with tines of a fork.

Bake in a 375-degree oven until pasties are lightly browned and vegetables are tender. At home the pasties may be served piping hot, but they make excellent lunchbox fare cold.

Fruited Coconut Pudding

1 cup sliced bananas

Prepare pudding according to directions, using two cups milk. Cook as the liquid. Cool. Stir in orange sections and sliced bananas. For carrying in lunchbox, spoon pudding into a half-pint, wide-mouthed vacuum bottle.

Species of Ligularia All Green With Large Leaves

BY KATHERINE B. WALKER
There was a time when if any be rolled in a cone of newspaper, one mentioned Ligularia. I always or they may be packed in individual thought of the Leopard-plant of dual plastic bags, or they may grandmother's day, which was a be unwrapped except for shredded favorite then as it is again now. ded wax-paper around them.

A few years ago it dawned on me that there was an all-green like nothing, as they do from the Ligularia. As soon as I found one listed in a catalog, I ordered it. If you like large-leaved foliage plants as much as I do, you'll surely want this one.

Since this plant lacks the yellow spots that gave one variety the name of Leopard-plant, I suppose we'll have to refer to it simply as Ligularia. It enjoys a somewhat shaded location which makes it an ideal indoor plant, and it also enjoys a steady source of moisture at the roots, so keep it on a pebble tray with the water just touching the pot base.

If you order your Ligularia (the same source also has the spotted one, if you prefer it), it will look like a rhizome; this grower ships most of his bulbous plants in a naturally or artificially-induced dormant state. But when potted and watered, Ligularia will soon begin to put forth its round glossy leaves, which may attain a breadth of 10 inches. If you would rather have smaller leaves, you can reduce their size by keeping the plant underpotted and underdressed.

Source Sheet
As your already know, Indoor Gardening obtains almost all of its plants by mail order, from sources listed on our source sheet. All growers have different methods of preparing plants for shipment. Some defoliate them, some ship only dormant stock, some ship in pots, some bare-root, and

Q What causes the big difference in prices of the same plants? For example, some African violets cost less than $1, while others cost as much as $2.

A. And in some places African violets cost even more! One factor is the size of the plant, another is its newness and availability, and a third factor is the shipping costs involved in getting the plants from the original grower to the ultimate seller, each of whom must make a profit. Plants of an old variety grown in your area by a large greenhouse will be the least expensive. Those grown by a large commercial grower, even after you pay the cost of handling and shipping, will be next lowest in price. Plants grown in another area and shipped to a local outlet will cost the most. One way to beat the price (and probably every grower from here to Timbuctoo will hate me for this) is to buy in with friends and buy a plant, then each take an equal number of leaf cuttings, and start your own plants.

Q How do you know the source?

BLARING T.V.

My husband and I are avid 'bridge players and we take it seriously. Recently we were invited to another couple's home for a game and they left their television set on all evening, blasting away while we were trying to concentrate. Finally I asked them to please turn it off, and I could tell they thought me very rude. Was I?

Louise Davis Answers:
You were just a tiny bit rude, but your hostess was very rude. You could have softened the blow by asking that the television set be turned down, thereby giving the hint to please turn it off. Your host and hostess would then be assured that the picture and sound were obstructing game concentration, as indeed it might. You weren't invited to come to watch television. You were invited for bridge. Most players can't do the two things at one time. If either your host or hostess had been looking forward to a special or pet program, they should have invited you to come on another night. Leaving TV going when invited for a game of bridge was distracting, selfish, thoughtless, inconsiderate.

CHOOSING BRIDESMAIDS

My daughter is to be married in a few months and is in the throes of selecting her bridesmaids. Two of the girls my daughter wants are older than she is, even a few years older, just so but relatives keep telling us that the aunt enhances the bridal bridesmaids should always be party.

Trio Will Open Series Of Concerts

The Aeolian Trio, which for 11 years has divided its time between the concert platform and posts as artists in residence at DePauw University, will open the Lawrence Conservatory Chamber Music series at 8:15 p.m. Monday in Harper Hall.

Herman C. Berg, violinist, holds degrees from Kansas State College, Eastman School of Music and DePauw. He is a pupil of Louis Persinger, the teacher of Yehudi Menuhin. A 1-time member of Rochester Symphony, Berg now directs the DePauw orchestra and is on the staff of Interlochen Music Camp. He has been national advisory chairman of the chamber music division for Women's Federation of Music Clubs.

Chapter Regent

Pianist Henry Kolling was trained at the University School of Music in Lincoln, Neb., and Columbia University. He held fellowships at the Institute of Musical Arts and the Juillard Graduate School for advanced work. Former president-general of Pi Kappa Lambda honorary music fraternity, he is now regent of the DePauw chapter, and former treasurer of the DePauw Opera Workshop.

Cassell Grubb, cellist, holds two degrees from the Eastman School of Music, where he held a George Eastman honorary scholarship. He taught at Del Mar College in Texas before joining the DePauw faculty, and during World War II was cellist with the Air Force String Quartet. He has studied with Luigi Silva and Jaros Starker.

The trio will play a Sonata in G Major by J. B. Loeillet, a Mozart Trio in G Major, K. 496, Eugene Goossens' "Four Impressions of a Holiday," and Brahms' Trio in C Minor, Op. 87. Admission is by season ticket only. The hall has been sold out.

over the next 24 years. The agency called a meeting of interested parties for Oct. 21 to determine how the new tests should be conducted.

The Food and Drug Administration once had ordered a ban on use of the colors, saying that test rats suffered liver, kidney and blood damage from a diet which included the dyes. The law then forbade use in cosmetics of any substance which caused damage in test animals.

Lipstick makers protested that no woman would swallow anything like the amount of the colors fed to the rats, but the law provided no leeway. Congress changed the law to permit use of the dyes in quantities found to be safe.

Those quantities were fixed in Tuesday's Food and Drug Administration order.

An industry spokesman said the amount of dye being used in most lipsticks is well below the limits fixed and few changes will have to be made.

Workshops, Kitchens Have Vital Place in Child's Education

BY ANGELO PATRI

All over this country new schools are being built or are the subject of bitter controversy by the taxpayers who, although they know the schools must be built cannot see their way toward paying for them. Their attitude is understandable. All of us are taxed to the limit of our ability to pay and to have the added tax demanded by the building of a modern school with all its essential facilities for the education of the modern child and youth looks like destruction. Yet, when all is said and done, there are the children.

The point of greatest resistance is the addition of rooms and teachers for hand skills. The three R's, the usual book studies, must be provided for. This everyone accepts. But these shops and things? Sheer nonsense. Waste. Frills.

Skill Necessary
To me, familiar with the character of the boys and girls entering their teens, these hand skills are absolute necessities. These children have one foot on the edge of maturity, the other in

A. I realize that few cats appreciate any method of transportation, but you may find your problem is KEEPING the cat in his new home, rather than getting him there. We've all read newspaper accounts of cats walking incredible distances to return to their old homes, and this particularly occurs in the older, set-in-his-ways pet. I'd advise moving him in a covered, but well

East Muffs Chance to Defeat Bid

It's a good idea to refuse the first trick in the enemy's long suit, but it's not necessarily wise to do so when some secondary suit is led. It takes judgment to know whether the suit is important or unimportant.

West opened the five of hearts, and South won with the king. Declarer counted his tricks and saw lost to the king, and back came that he would have no trouble if he could bring in five clubs. If the clubs were not solid, he would need one spade trick.

Call Emotions Main Cause Of Dropouts

Panel of Educators Disagrees on Ways Of Solving Problem

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Most students who fail to complete high school are emotionally disturbed, a six-member panel agreed Tuesday night at a meeting of area educators called by the state employment office here.

A survey by the employment service showed that a person who drops out of high school has difficulties finding jobs, said Raymond Larson of the Green Bay WSES office.

Dr. Neil J. Webb, assistant professor of psychology at St. Norbert College, said major reasons for dropping out of high school are tardiness, excessive absence, lack of interest in school activities, lack of family education, work failure, lack of classroom participation, broken homes and discipline.

'Should Be Spotted'
"These students are emotionally disturbed and should be spotted during their elementary school years," he said.

"Must we take these students with personality problems into a high school that is also competing to produce top scientists, technicians and artists?" asked George Dauplaise, principal of Green Bay West High School.

K. W. Haubenschild, director of the Green Bay Vocational School, said the problem children should not be segregated because they "feel it when you place them in a lower group."

Speakers Disagree
Webb and Haubenschild claimed the dropouts were not of low intelligence, while Otto Neuman, Oconto and Forest County superintendent of schools, cited a U.S. government survey which listed low IQ as the major cause of dropout.

It was reported that Wisconsin high schools graduate more than 90 per cent of their freshmen, the best record in the nation. However, panel members agreed that dropout still is a problem here.

Cities with vocational schools require students to attend high or vocational school until the age of 16; in other areas school attendance is compulsory to the age of 16.

The panel agreed to hold another meeting to try to formulate a definite program to combat dropout.

Other panel members included Frank Weeks, Bondell High School principal and Gerald Eyer, Oconto County superintendent. Frank Joswick, Pulaski High School principal, was moderator.

Rule Goldfine Incompetent To Stand Trial

Boston—Industrialist Bernard Goldfine, whose gift list once included former presidential aide Sherman Adams, has been ruled mentally incompetent to stand trial for tax evasion.

Federal Judge George C. Sweeney handed down the ruling yesterday after three court-appointed psychiatrists testified Goldfine suffers from manic depressive psychosis with suicidal tendencies.

The 70-year-old textile man was ordered committed to custody of the U. S. attorney general until he is able to stand trial on and defend himself on charges of evading nearly $800,000 in personal and corporate income taxes, or until some other disposition is made of the case.

Goldfine's controversial gifts to Adams led to the resignation of the Eisenhower aide after a congressional investigation.

Judge Sweeney ordered Goldfine returned to St. Elizabeth hospital in Boston until the attorney general directs his transfer to another institution.

Goldfine's secretary, Mildred Paperman, indicted with him on tax evasion charges, goes on trial Oct. 24.

Nelson Takes Drive Into GOP Stronghold

Calls Crowd 'Fantastic' at Democratic 'Wing Ding' in Sturgeon Bay; Tours County

BY JAMES BARTELT
Post-Crescent News Service
Gov. Gaylord Nelson campaigned through the lakeshore cities today, buoyed by the size of Wednesday night's turnout in Sturgeon Bay, a city known to report 75 per cent margins for Republicans in past elections.

Starting the third day of grassroots campaigning in northeastern Wisconsin, Nelson arose at 5:15 a.m. to drive from Sturgeon Bay to Algoma for plant state appearances at Algoma Plywood and Veneer Co. and Algoma Wood Industries.

In 1958, Door County was in the top five counties to vote for former Gov. Vernon Thomson against Nelson. Wednesday night, the award-winning Amvets drill team turned out to lead Nelson down Sturgeon Bay's main street to the Hotel Swoboda, where more than 200 persons had come for a Door County Democratic "wing ding."

Earlier, Nelson spoke to 125 persons at a shipyard workers union gathering and to a dinner meeting of the Sturgeon Bay Business and Professional Woman's Club.

Endorsed by Mayor
"This is fantastic. In 1958, we couldn't get a corporal's guard together in Sturgeon Bay," Nelson said to aides.

The "wing ding" was an old-fashioned political affair with free beer and dance music and with most of the emphasis on Sen. John Kennedy. A table selling Kennedy skimmers was doing a good business with people filing in from the brisk October air outside.

Nelson was introduced by Mayor Stanley Greene, who noted his reputation against blind allegiance to any political party. But Greene called for Nelson's reelection as an individual with a proved record. Greene's flat endorsement of both surprised and pleased Nelson.

Greene, former president of the Wisconsin League of Municipalities, is a member of the governor's tax study committee.

The standard question on the sales tax was put to Nelson after he finished his talk at the union meeting and Nelson went back to the platform to answer it.

Business Climate
He explained the investigative object of his tax distribution to local communities. As a member of the State Senate, Nelson said, his position in the past was against sales taxes which would have moved the tax burden to low-income persons.

"I have yet to see a sales tax laid on the table that is a fair one, let's see one and take a look at it," Nelson said in explaining his attitude.

Nelson told his Sturgeon Bay audiences that he is tired of hearing about Wisconsin's bad climate for businesses. This phrase is trotted out for instances like the Auto-Lite plant closing in La Crosse when simple reasons like markets are involved, he said.

"I happen to believe that Wisconsin has made the most beneficial gains effecting economic growth in the last three years than most other states," he said.

Small Towns
Nelson said the reasons were with proceeds to be used for tables in the school's all-purpose room. The party, open to the public, will include dancing and cards.

Nelson reached Sturgeon Bay after plugging his lakes classification plan at a luncheon of 35 and North Western Railroad depot in Appleton for 18 years, retired Wednesday.

Schommer began as ticket clerk and held the same job for his entire railroad career.

Fellow employer presented him with a rod and reel to use in some of his retirement spare time.

Cyril and Methodist grade school in the Town of Eaton and talking about beef pulp for cattle food with workers at the H. G. Le Roy Mill in Brussels. Nelson took a taste of the pulp for good measure.

The advantage of the incumbent was illustrated again at the school visit when the nun in charge asked her students if they knew who had just walked into the room. Several students answered promptly that "it was the governor," Nelson spoke to the students and walked down the aisles to shake each hand.

Nelson had to furnish some advice in return for his walk through a garage in Casco. Lee Tilens, the owner, led the governor into his office to denounce a Madison garage bill for a repaired truck. Tilens asked Nelson for advice not as governor but because he lived in Madison. Nelson said he thought it would be a good idea to hire a lawyer.

Boy Scout Fund Drive to Begin in Two Districts
Plans for the Boy Scout finance campaigns in all the towns within the council's territory which do not have a Community Chest have been announced by F. A. Meythaler, treasurer of the Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Meythaler said funds obtained will make possible continuation of scouting activities and expansion of scouting programs. Robert Zwicker, Appleton, is council chairman of the campaigns. East District general chairman will be Hugh Nelson, Kaukauna. Edwin Lemke, Kaukauna, is vice chairman. General chairman of the North District is Max Steig, Clintonville.

The campaigns will begin Oct. 18. The general chairman will be hon. Eugene Draheim; Sherwood, assisted by community chairman Clarence Mueller; Hilbert, Armin in each of the localities within the Hernke Assisting Steig in the districts. Communities in the East North District are Shawano. # Sea Cucumber Poison May Repel Sharks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy hopes to catch on a person given off by the "sea cucumber" fish will lead to an improved shark repellent, it was reported today.

The sea cucumber, a marine creature related to the rear-fish that gets its name from its cucumber shape, secretes a toxic substance called "holothurin" to protect itself from its natural enemies.

Farmers Interested More in Prices Than Peace Issue

Democrats Try to Benefit From Growing Economic Discontent

BY SAMUEL LUBELL

"Why should the farmer go broke to prevent a war?" That strange remark was voiced in sheer frustration by an Iowa farm wife. Yet in many ways it sums up the bitter emotional conflict that grips many Midwestern farmers today.

I had stopped at this farmhouse toward the end of a morning's interviews near Luther, Iowa. Asked whom she liked for president this woman exclaimed, "We don't know which chance to take."

"When you knocked I was going over all our unpaid bills," she explained. "We're slipping behind a little more each year. We just can't stand another four years of these Benson policies."

"But I don't want war," she went on. "Nixon and Eisenhower will be better for keeping the peace. It's a gamble either way. Do we vote Democrat or do we vote Republican and maybe go broke?"

This conflict between economic discontent and the fear of war is not new for the nation's farmers. In 1952 the overwhelming majority cast their ballots in favor of ending the Korean War "even if it means lower farm prices." By 1956 the balance of feeling had shifted sufficiently so that Eisenhower ran considerably worse among farmers than in 1952, even while he was increasing his majority in the rest of the country.

This year, the "peace" issue, while still potent, seems to be pulling even less strongly for the Republicans than a few years ago.

David Bliss, Democratic candidate for the First District assembly seat was guest at the first of a series of candidates' coffee hours when he met with women voters at the Irvin Mueller home, 835 W. Glendale

These arguments are having some effect. One Iowa farmer remarked, "I've been on the fence, but I guess Kennedy will get my vote. We've been in danger of war for a long time. But the Republicans have had it eight years. It's time to try something new."

When I pressed him as to the better man as president, in a war crisis, he thought for a few moments and replied, "We all know Nixon has been in there and Ike has taught him a lot. But it's time we farmers voted for a man who will think of the farmer. This

lie. Three Guthrie County farmers told me. "I've had enough of the Republicans, but my wife won't vote for a Catholic."

On the farmers who are still undecided how to vote in November four out of five give religion as the main reason for their indecision.

Most of these farmers say "Kennedy is sincere" in declaring that the Pope would not influence him, but usually they add that "he can't help but be influenced some."

The extent to which religion is proving more important politically than the "peace" issue can also be seen by interviewing German American farmers of Luther-

Resort Area Private Roads Called Problem

Commission Agrees Many Too Narrow For Two-Way Traffic

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Narrow private roads laid out many years ago for use of cottages and summer residents in many resort districts are providing headaches for state and local road administrators.

As the standards of public road design and maintenance steadily improve, there is increasing pressure upon the public authorities to add such private roadway to the public road system to make them eligible for tax funds for upkeep and snow removal.

But town officials are reluctant to make such additions, in spite of substantial state aids available for rural road mileage, because many of them are too narrow for two-way public use. They have recently won the official backing of the state highway commission for that position. Harvey Grasse, chairman of the state highway commission, has assured town boards that they have legal authority for the rejection of such roads, for statutes require town roads to be at least three rods wide.

The state highway department believes four rods is preferable width so that ultimate reconstruction can provide a roadbed with sufficient space for two-way traffic, shoulders, ditches and back-slopes.

Grasse says that because of extensive crowding of many of the private roads by cottages and other buildings, there is no way to widen them to the required size. Many of the original roads were built on narrow right-of-way by private developers in order to emphasize their private character and to discourage public use, he said.

U of W Given Grant Of $628,225 for Building Construction

MADISON (AP) — The University of Wisconsin has received a grant of $628,225 to help finance construction of a new genetics research building.

The money was received Tuesday from the National Institutes of Health. It raised the amount available for the building to $1,668,655. The total cost is estimated at $1,680,000.

The Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation has contributed $850,000 for construction of the building and the Campbell Soup Co. $189,000. The new building will be used for both general and medical genetics.

Outagamie Value Rises Over 1959

Near-$20 Million Increase About 3 Times That Reported Last Year

Outagamie county's equalized value — the so-called state value which is often called true value — increased nearly $20 million over last year, the state Department of Taxation's Fond du Lac assessor's office has reported to the county board.

The rise is nearly three times that reported a year ago, but is far under the same $55 million boost reported two years ago. The total county value is $489,855,550 — nearly a half-billion dollars.

Equalized value is a means by which the state distributes its taxes throughout 71 counties equitably.

Sharing Taxes

The state sets its equalized value, then calculates each municipality's share of the total value in a county to give a basis for distributing county and state levies within the county. The total county value also is in proportion to the other 70 state counties, giving a basis for the distribution of state levies.

In Outagamie county, the cities pay the majority of the levies—slightly over 64.6 per cent, a rise of about 1 per cent over last year. The rise in cities' share of the levy has been constant over the last 15 years. The towns' share keeps dropping, this year to 22.7 per cent, something less than 1 per cent less than last year. Villages dropped slightly this year to 12.7 per cent, less than two-tenths of a per cent under last year.

Appleton, the largest governmental unit, pays most of the freight in the county—nearly 52 per cent. The smallest share of county and state levies is paid by the village of Bear Creek.

Following is a complete table of equalized value for each municipality in the county, with a comparison of last year's value and the ratios of the total county value for each.

Quemoy and Matsu

Political Debate Continues in U. S. Over 2 Nationalist Isles

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The presidential candidates are blowing up a storm over what each would do about two small islands—Quemoy and Matsu—off the Red China coast. Should they or shouldn't they be left out of the area which this country would defend against the Red Chinese? Sen. John F. Kennedy says yes—in order to avoid being dragged into a war over them. Vice President Richard M. Nixon says no—but he didn't say he'd go to war to defend them. The islands became a campaign issue last week in the Nixon-Kennedy TV debate. Those islands, close to the China mainland, are claimed by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government on Formosa, which is 110 miles from the mainland.

Invasion Likely

But the Red Chinese on the mainland claim them, too. Chiang keeps a lot of his troops on them. The Reds have been bombarding them for years. Sooner or later, as Red China gets stronger, it will probably try to take them by invasion.

This country, by treaty with Chiang, is bound to defend Formosa from Red attack. It is not Chinese have them. Why? He said But Chiang claimed more than su. And President Eisenhower, Kennedy was actually echoing:

has always avoided saying this the views of some other Democrats in past years. Nixon was echoing Eisenhower, even to the extent of using some of the same words the President has used in the past.

Wednesday night Kennedy accused Nixon of being "trigger-happy" in insisting upon holding on to those "unimportant...indispensable" islands.

Different Views

Whether or not the islands would be defended has always been tied to this question which Nixon says no—but he didn't say he'd go to war to defend them. The islands became a campaign issue last week in the Nixon-Kennedy TV debate. Those islands, close to the China mainland, are claimed by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government on Formosa, which is 110 miles from the mainland.

U. S. Attitude Changed

Here's a little background: After the Red Chinese drove Chiang from the mainland in 1949 he fled to Formosa with his forces. This country had little interest in Chiang or Formosa at the time. President Truman even announced this country would not attempt to defend Formosa or Chiang from Red attack. And saying this country would also consider even Formosa essential to this country's defenses in the Pacific.

This attitude changed when the Korean War started. Ever since, the few people who live on them have been told they are "unimportant...but he wouldn't let the Red take them. Why? He said But Chiang claimed more than su. And President Eisenhower, Kennedy was actually echoing:

lands, which are close to Formosa, plus a string of islands which, lying close to the mainland, were more than 100 miles from Formosa. These included Quemoy and Matsu and 100 miles up the coast, the island of Ichang and the Tachen Islands.

Tachens Abandoned

In 1955 the Reds captured Ichang and this government persuaded Chiang to abandon the Tachens because they were not essential to Formosa's defense. At that time Eisenhower didn't mention any principle being involved in letting the Reds have Ichang and the Tachens.

Later, however, he said the American people would stand by a "principle" in not letting Quemoy and Matsu go. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said they might be important in the defense of Formosa. He didn't, however, say they were.

Sign Defense Pact

This country, meanwhile, signed a defense pact with Chiang, pledging to defend Formosa and the Pescadores. There was no pledge to defend Quemoy and Matsu. But the door was left open on this by saying this country would also consider even Formosa essential to this country's defenses in the Pacific.

Tenderizer Transforms Utility Beef Into Steaks

BY FRANK KOHLER

Here is Family Steak, a great way to transform any cut of beef into a broiling steak by means of meat tenderizer.

Kohler

Here you can use a chuck round or rump steaks with a resultant and gratifying reduction in cost. Follow instructions on the tenderizer, noting especially the following points:

1. The meat should be cut not less than two inches thick, nor more than three. It can be cut from top or bottom round, sirloin tip, heel of round, boneless blade, arm chuck or rump, for instance.
2. It should weigh not less than three pounds, boneless or three and one-half pounds with bone in.
3. Before cooking, trim off surplus fat, slash the fat edges, sprinkle all surfaces with meat tenderizer as you would with salt.
4. The meat must be broiled or barbecued, and we do recommend a meat thermometer. If broiled, it should be four to six inches above the direct broiler heat; if barbecued, two to three inches above the coals. Allow about 13 minutes or so per side for rare, 15 minutes for medium.
5. In serving cut in thin diagonal slices across the grain at approximately a 30-degree angle. Serve three or more slices to a customer.

This operation is well worthy of experimentation, and we hope you'll try it, and that you'll enjoy it as much as we do.

This economical extravaganza should please the most discriminating and fastidious, as they utilize brown-and-serve rolls budget. withal. For six:

A round steak 3 inches thick and weighing not less than 4 1/2 pounds.

Seasoned meat tenderizer.

Flour.

Prepare the meat as in point three above. When ready to cook, coat the meat very heavily with flour, making the coating as thick as you possibly can. Place the refrigerator, loosely covered with waxed paper. In the latter case, let meat come to room temperature before cooking.

When done, knock off the flour and ashes and place the meat on a cutting board. Slice in thin slices as directed in point five above. Elegant if the slices are dipped in melted butter and then encased in split and toasted hot dog buns, for instance.

Pickle Sausage Sandwich

These are quick, easy and good, and utilize brown-and-serve rolls

Cooked Cabbage Highly Recommended

For cooked cabbage, try this recipe recommended by home economists: Heat one and one-half cup of milk; add one quart shredded cabbage. Simmer about two minutes.

Mix one and one-half table-spoons of flour with equal amount of hot milk; add a little bit of melted butter, and add a little bit of the cabbage and cook three minutes or until thickened. Stir constantly. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Bake the sandwiches and the tops of the rolls separately, but simultaneously, for 15 to 20 minutes at 400 degrees, until rolls and sausages are nicely browned. Remove from oven, cover sausages with top half of rolls, and serve hot.

Winter Squash Comes In 4 Main Varieties

There are four main varieties of winter squash which have arrived on the market scene. They are the familiar acorn, buttercup, butternut and Hubbard squash.

The small acorns are the most popular because they can be baked whole or easily split.

The split acorn may be baked upright in a 375-degree oven for about 45 minutes or it may be placed cut-side downward. A generous piece of butter with perhaps a bit of brown sugar is all it takes to make this squash tasty.

Good Stuffed

It also is a natural for stuffing for such foods as baked apple halves, apple slices or creamed vegetables in the finished squash. Another suggestion is to put sausage meat or creamed ham in the uncooked acorn halves then bake at 375 degrees for about an hour.

The buttercup squash is another of the smaller members of the family, although its weight runs from three to five pounds. This is the squash that looks as if it is wearing a turban, with that light green cap topping the deep green flesh of this squash is a sweeter, flavored squash than the acorn.

The squash can be cut in four wedges and baked, much the same as acorn squash or it can be peeled and steamed in an inch of boiling water for 12 to 15 minutes in a covered pan. Allow three pounds of squash for four servings.

Long-Necked Variety

A member of the squash family that deviates from the deep green color is the butternut squash which is becoming more and more popular as homemakers try it and find that the flavor is really very good. This squash, too, has the deep yellow flesh although the outer skin is a creamy tan color.

Unlike the acorn and the butternut, this squash has a long neck. The skin is a little softer, so it is easier to cut than the other squashes.

It, too, can be cut in half and baked, or it can be sliced, peeled and then steamed or boiled in a small amount of water, allowing about the same cooking time as for the buttercup squash. This squash runs between two to three pounds in weight. The neck, by the way, is seedless, and so slices very well for individual servings.

The huge variety is the Hubbard. It is one of the ugliest specimens of squash that one could hope to find, and yet it has a beautifully tender heart. It has a warty skin that may be dark green, a bluish-green or grey.

Delicious Variety

One of its varieties, the delicious, some list this as a separate variety completely. It has a bright orange skin. This is the type of squash that you might want to cut in pieces.

Some women like to cover the pieces, with cut-side down, on a shallow pan for baking. Or, it can be steamed, following the same directions for buttercup squash. For the delicious variety, however, you would allow 25 to 30 minutes for cooking time.

Mashed squash can be flavored with butter and brown sugar, or you might add per cup of mashed squash, a mixture of one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon brown sugar, one half teaspoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon ginger. When put in the serving dish it could be sprinkled with a bit of chopped parsley, or raisins, or nut meats or sauteed onions. Or one might mix with the mashed squash, a few sauteed onions, some sour cream, or a pinch of allspice for variations. Then the squash would be put in a double boiler and heated for serving.

Fryers Among Specials At Fox Cities Markets

Fryers, normally a market special in the summertime, are featured in many Fox Cities stores this week as an Indian summer item. Beef cuts also are a popular favorite this week and hams and spareribs are making their appearance as more frequent specials. Egg prices remain high, 69 cents a dozen for the large eggs. Most markets have been charging a few cents more for the large egg prices representing a comparative bargain at 39 cents a dozen. In the east, eggs have gone up two to four cents above last week's prices. The smart housewife will offset the egg situation by taking advantage of specials on cheese in line with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's October cheese festival. Other specials include: Frying chickens, in excellent supply, cost about 29 to 33 cents a pound, one store offering the Best buys among vegetables this week are homegrown cabbages of excellent, firm quality at 9 cents a head, homegrown cauliflower, also of fine quality, at 19 cents a dozen. Other meats that represent good buys are chuck roast at 35 cents a pound for U.S. choice and 33 cents for economy grade of beef. Baking potatoes from out of state are arriving in quantities and look very good as to quality. Their prices vary according to type and size. In the best buy list among fruits are bananas at two pounds for 29 cents. McIntosh and Cortland apples, tokay grapes and small oranges, most of the latter from California.

Sardines Lend Themselves To Many Different Dishes

BY EDITH M. BARBER
The sardine, that small fish with a definite flavor, is often thought of as a foreigner. True, much of our supply is imported, but little or none comes from the small island in the Mediterranean which gave the sardine its name. Many fish are wanderers and some went to the coast of Morocco and to Brittany on the French coast. From the Northern waters comes a large supply of small fish known as Brisling or sild for which the title sardine has been adopted. In this country, both California and Maine provide a goodly supply. A year or two ago, food editors visited the packing plant on the Maine coast. Fishermen there are always on the watch for a sardine school and weighted nets are ready to drop and pull a catch eggs into the boat. The sardines are dumped into tanks of salt water ings.

and kept there until the boats reach the processing plant. The sardine sandwich is a general favorite, but there are many interesting ways to combine sardines with other foods, such as a hearty casserole with a spaghetti base, the recipe for which is printed today. This will keep hot for some time, so it can be served outdoors as well as indoors. It is a good idea to pack the sticks of butter in a bed of ice to prevent their melting on a warm evening.

Sardine Kennebec
1 package (8 ounces) regular or thin spaghetti

1/4 teaspoon dried basil
1/4 teaspoon dried thyme

1/2 cup grated sharp cheese
Cook spaghetti according to direction on package, and drain. Reserve few whole sardines for garnishing, and break the remainder in pieces. Combine sardine pieces and oil with remaining ingredients and simmer until cheese begins to melt. Pour spaghetti into large casserole dish, add sauce and toss lightly. Bake in moderate oven about 25 minutes or until hot and beginning to brown. Garnish with whole sardines and return to oven until hot. Yield: six servings.

Famed Cellist's Benefit Concert Draws $50,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Pablo Casals, world-famed cellist, in what was technically his first New York appearance in a quarter-century, gave a concert Tuesday night in the midtown home of Mr. and Mrs. David Rockefeller.

It was a benefit performance. The 100 invited guests contributed an estimated $50,000 to the September 1961 Pablo Casals international violin competition in Israel. The competition, held before in France and Mexico, is sponsored by the America-Israel Cultural Foundation. Casals is chairman of the board of judges. The music program consisted of the Mendelssohn Trio in D minor and the Schubert Quintet in C major. Assisting the maestro were pianist Mieczyslaw Horowitz, violinist Alexander Schneider and the Budapest String Quartet. Casals played at the United Nations here two years ago, and he came to the States twice before this year from his home in Puerto Rico but to teach, not to play.

Cooperative Asks Milk Price Hike

CHICAGO (AP) — The Pure Milk Association representing 14,000 dairy farmers who supply half of Chicago's milk, is asking for a new pricing formula which could mean an increase in the price of milk.

Three hundred delegates attending the association's annual fall meeting Tuesday instructed their cooperatives to recommend an "economic type pricing formula" as the basis for negotiations with Chicago area dairies that would establish new milk prices to farmers after Jan. 1.

PMA is a marketing cooperative with members in northern Illinois, Indiana, southern Wisconsin and Michigan.

The formula now used under the federal market order determines the price of Class I (bottled) milk by basing it on the price of milk used for butter, cheese, evaporated and powdered milk.

The formula sought by PMA would include the wholesale commodity index, an index of consumer purchasing power and an index of the cost of livestock feed and wages.

Employment Service to Help Freed Prisoners

FREEHOLD, N. J. (AP) — Inmates soon to be released from the Monmouth County jail have the use of a new service designed to help rehabilitate them—a prison employment agency.

Under the system worked out by the State Employment Service, prospective employers are invited to visit the jail for interviews. Inmates are not allowed to make appointments for outside interviews.

Honey Apple Jelly

Use tart apples. Wash, remove stems and dark spots, quarter but do not pare or core apples. Add just enough water to half cover apples and cook until the fruit is soft. Drain, using a jelly bag. Measure juice. Add one-half cup honey and one-half cup sugar for every cup of juice. Boil until a good jelly test is obtained. Pour into hot, sterilized glasses. Cover with paraffin.

Gridiron Thunder to Replace Air Force Roar

'Twentieth Century' Starts New Series
With Wired-for-Sound Football Giant

BY JINGO
It appears the "Twentieth Century" program on CBS has run out of the air power scripts it has been feasting on for some time. On Oct. 30 when it premieres its fourth season, it will turn from history to telling on the spot stories of today.

The premiere showing is as typical as it can be, especially for grid-lever ridden Packerland. The show will be "The Violent World of Sam Huff," the story of a New York Giants linebacker.

New techniques and equipment will take the viewer right onto the field of play. Huff was wired for sound during scrimmages and during the Giants-Bear exhibition game.

Although the program will illustrate how scientific the pro game has become with insight into the many hours of classroom work demanded, the wired bruiser will broadcast plenty of the bone crushing action that remains when the ball is snapped.

If the on-the-spot shows come only halfway up to the excellence of "Twentieth Century's" historic productions, they will be heads and shoulders above most TV fare.

With the political campaign being covered from every angle imaginable, it was just a matter of time when the coverage would look at what the musical stage has done and can do with the boorah.

CBS-TV will fill the gap with a special, "The Right Man," on Oct. 24. The show will tell the story of campaigning through songs, the dance and dramatic vignettes. Garry Moore will be the host to a cast that includes Richard Boone, recreating his Broadway Abraham Lincoln role; Edward G. Robinson as Teddy Roosevelt and Thomas Mitchell as Grover Cleveland.

On Oct. 28 and 29, CBS will premiere its ambitious "Family Classics" series with a two-hour production of "The Scarlet Pimpernel." Marureen O'Hara, Michael Rennie and Zachary Scott will play the leads. The show will be split in two with an hour each night.

W. C. Fields made it a rule never to play a scene with ei-

'Naked City' Returns to TV In Fine Form

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A good, taut police action series, "Naked City," dropped out of the television lineup after the 1958 season. It made a comeback on ABC Wednesday night, expanded to an hour, and better than ever.

The first episode was about a rogue cop pulling off a box office holdup in a fight arena. It was fast moving, exciting and well acted. Much of the show was filmed in New York City locations.

There was violence—a lot of it—but not a gun was fired nor a blow struck merely for violence's sake. The story developed logically as police officers focused their attention on one of their own. Paul Burke and Horace McMahon are the regulars. It was a good show, up to the standards of "The Untouchables."

I'd like to make as glowing a report on NBC's new "Peter Loves Mary," but honesty forbids it. It is one of those quasi-biographical situation comedies and it lured Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy, a talented and charming couple, into the treacherous mine fields of the series.

Maybe subsequent shows will improve and the first episode was merely an effort to get the situation and the characters established in the viewers' minds if not liked in the viewers' hearts.

Perry Como had an off evening, too, although the star was in good voice. Sid Caesar was the guest star, and although he was there first with a spoof on "The Big Debate," the comedian kept safely away from any dangerous satirical areas and mostly made funny faces.

Veteran Bandleader Ted Lewis and his wife Ada pose together in their New York apartment as they celebrated their 45th wedding anniversary. The celebration also marked Lewis' 50th year in show business. He wears his old and battered trademark, a top hat that accompanied him through his career.

Strange Remedies Suggested

Only Sure Cure for Hangover Is Time

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The common cold and the uncommon Tabasco sauce in milk, turkish hangover have one thing in common—baths, pea soup, or long solitary mon—science has found no sure walks.

So far the only real solace available to the victim of either ailment is the realization that if he makes the best of his ordeal it will finally go away.

No one knows when the first human being caught the first common cold, or when the first man came down with an uncommon hangover. But both afflictions have been known throughout recorded history.

Pay for Cure
There are men who wouldn't give a dime to discover a cure for the common cold who would gladly—at least on some memorable mornings—give a million dollars for a genuine and immediate hangover cure.

In the folklore of drinking there have been as many cures for hangovers as there have been for the hiccups. Everybody has a cure—or has heard of a cure—but none of them really works.

One recommends a copious intake of ice cream the morning after.

Odd Remedies
Other students of this vital topic advocate such various remedies as vast gulps of hot black coffee, tomato juice, orange juice and

Mobile Against Songs With Double Meanings

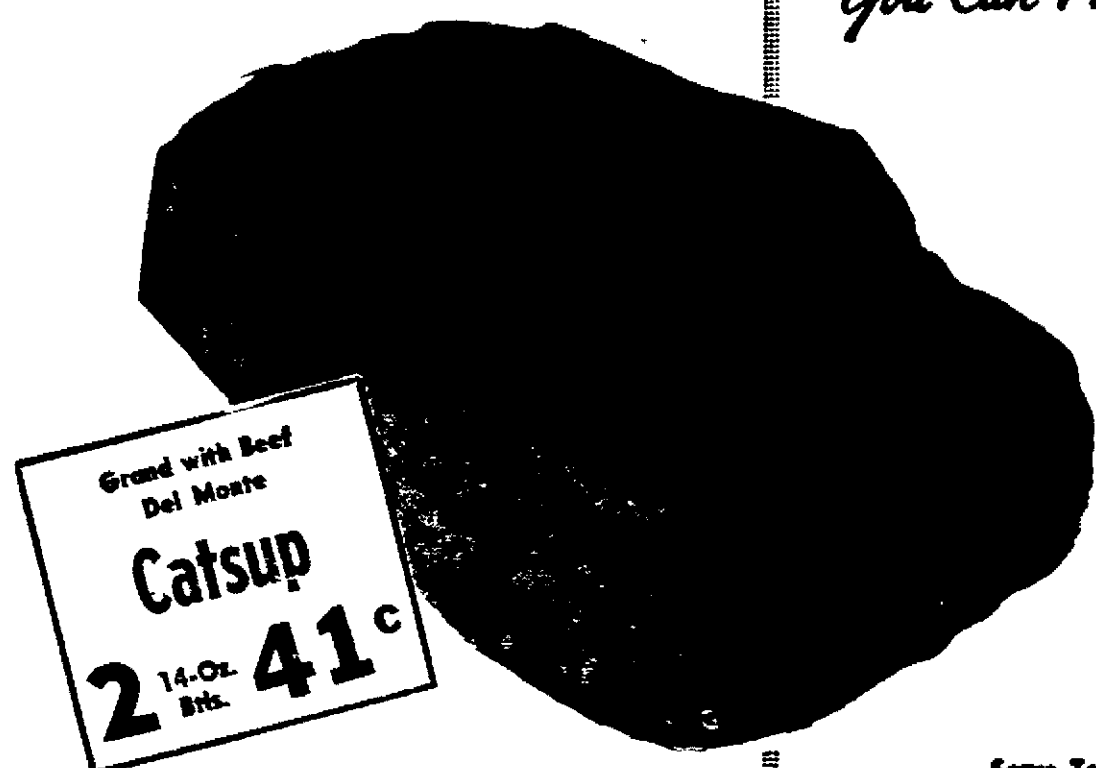

MOBILE, ALA. (AP)—A Mobile County grand jury has asked the Federal Communications Commission to take steps "to see that suggestive and vulgar records be removed from the broadcasts in this community."

The grand jury did not identify any of the Mobile radio stations which is charged are playing records that "are suggestive, vulgar, and sometimes downright obscene."

The records also were not named, but the jury's report said, "The words on these records and the methods of delivering those words are deliberately given double meanings."

Stockbridge to Appleton Tolls May End

PSC Approves Plans For Installation of Dial Switchboards

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — More than 500 subscribers of the Stockbridge and Sherwood Telephone Co. soon will be able to call stations in three neighboring communities without toll charges.

The Public Service Commission has approved plans of the company to spend nearly $50,000 for the installation of dial switchboard equipment and to provide extended area service to Appleton and Hildreth. Subscribers also will be able to exchange calls between Stockbridge and Sherwood without charge.

The company has been planning extended area service to Forest Junction and Clinton, the commission said, but proceedings for that program have not yet been completed.

To Accommodate Growth
The new equipment will also permit an expansion of the telephone subscribers' lines to accommodate business and population growth. Lines are now carrying near their capacity, it was said.

Rate structure revisions usually accompany the provision of extended area service, but the tariff will be handled in a separate case, according to state officials.

Included in the switchboard equipment at Stockbridge will be equipment for toll trunks to the toll center at Appleton for other long distance calls. The new equipment is also being planned for time disconnect of conversations on all non-toll calls, and seven digit numbering the company explained to the state agency.

Holy Name Officers To Attend Institute

Officers of about 200 Holy Name Societies from throughout the Green Bay Diocese will attend a leadership institute Sunday at Fremont High School, Green Bay.

Five panel workshops are scheduled and the keynote address will be given by Ray J. Aiken, professor of law at Marquette University.

Edmund Kwaterski, Brussels, is in charge of the third annual institute.

Girl Killed As Stolen Car Crashes

CRANDON—A high speed crash in a stolen car in Idaho Wednesday cost the life of a 17-year-old Crandon area girl who had run away from home with her boyfriend.

She was Caroline Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Campbell, Argonne, seven miles north of Crandon.

Driver of the car, reportedly stolen at Crandon Monday, was Andrew Pennington, 19, of Crandon. He was paroled from the Wisconsin State Reformatory on Sept. 1 after serving part of a term for auto theft. His parents are separated and no longer live in the Crandon area.

Pennington's condition was described as critical. Mr. and Mrs. Marvin P. Campbell of Great Falls, Mont., who were in the other car, also were reported in critical condition. They are not related to the Argonne girl, police said.

Idaho state police spotted the stolen vehicle at 4 p.m. Wednesday near Wallace and gave chase. Pennington was lengthening the distance between them, the officers said, when the stolen vehicle smashed head-on into the Montana car. Lyle Palmer, Forest County sheriff, said warrants had been issued at Crandon for arrest of the runaway pair.

Idaho authorities were alerted after Palmer was told that Pennington had mentioned he was planning to visit relatives in Idaho. The car belonged to Lloyd Knead, of Crandon.

Professor to Speak

Professor Adenwalla, a her way home from school. The native of India will talk on current politics and our government.

Five Beaver Dam City officials visited Appleton Wednesday to learn how Appleton conducts and finances its street building program. Beaver Dam does its own street construction and is concerned about the cost. Appleton lets the work out on competitive bids to private contractors. Showing the visitors some construction on N. Rankin street are Director of Public Works Edwin Duszynski and his chief inspector, Emmet McCarthy, at far left. Beaver Dam officials are, from left, Ray Ebert, assistant city engineer; Edward Roedel, street superintendent; Mayor Clarence Arndt; John Italiano, water department superintendent; and John Prunuske, city engineer. Prunuske formerly worked for the Appleton engineering department.

Calumet County to Keep Its Over-Representation in State

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The residents of Calumet County are going to continue to enjoy a disproportionate influence in Wisconsin law-making, whatever the legislature does about reapportionment of legislative seats next year.

The county is one of the most over-represented, under the population apportionment requirement of the constitution, in Wisconsin. But because of an accident of constitutional draftsmanship, its favored position is going to continue and will probably be accentuated.

The county was credited with 22,210 inhabitants in the 1960 U.S. government census.

Under a strict distribution of the state assembly seats according to population, as provided in the constitution, each assembly district next year should have about 39,000 residents. The reapportionment commission now at work has set 40,000 as a rough goal toward which it is working.

Big Counties Around It
Thus the Calumet County resident for the next decade will have a legislative voice roughly equal to two citizens of most other counties, as he has had a more potent representation during the last decade.

The unique Calumet County situation has attracted the worried attention of reapportionment committees for more than two decades, but they have been unable to change it. The county's position results from the constitutional law that an assembly district must follow county lines, which means that no part of any neighboring county can be attached to it, and that two counties when joined together for a single district must be contiguous.

There is no other small county adjoining Calumet.

County Plans To Buy Land For Storage

Shiocton Site For Building to House Salt Supply

The Outagamie County Highway Committee has been given permission by the county board to buy two acres of land along State 76 in Shiocton for $500 an acre to build a storage shed for salt used on state and county roads for snow and ice control.

The state has been urging the county to build the storage sheds for a year or so. It wants salt used on state and federal routes at least partially covered. Osborn Supv. Edward Peotter, highway committee chairman, said.

Last year the committee recommended, and the board by accepting its annual report approved, setting $27,000 aside from the highway machinery fund for building wooden buildings at the garage site near U.S. 10 and 41 and at Shiocton on 76.

Wants to Move
The highway committee wants to move its Shiocton facilities because the area is too small, and feels that the property can be sold easily, Peotter indicated.

If possible, the buildings—about 30 by 70 or 80 feet and estimated to hold several hundred tons of salt—will be built before winter. Commissioner Clarence Brownson said. The state pays the county $1 per ton for storage and specifies that about half of it be under cover.

Nikita's Mistakes Setback for Russia

Violent Language, Threats Him to Lose Face in U.N.

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Premier Khrushchev's mistakes at this bewildering session of the U. N. General Assembly have been nothing short of awesome.

His performance may even cause him trouble when he gets back to Moscow. He's had to face the music before for past mistakes, although he has managed to stay on top.

Khrushchev is nursing painful wounds sustained in the verbal battles which culminated last night in a spectacle that left delegates stunned and bewildered.

Khrushchev may still consider that he made some gains. The back, and that Khrushchev humiliated at the U.N. is that he self contributed liberally to it. Now that the captains and the kings have just about all departed and a calmer look can be taken at the sensational goings-on, some conclusions can be drawn from the first hectic weeks of the Assembly's 15th regular session—a session that will live in history.

Can't Keep Score
A diplomatic struggle is not a football game. There is no clear-cut score to distinguish winner from loser. Khrushchev's success or failure depends in many instances on the point of view.

One of his main purposes in coming to New York was to make a strong bid for the goodwill and respect of African nations and of other uncommitted countries. He blew his chance finally last night with his shoe-waving, shouting performance which led to the climactic adjournment of the wild session in U.N. history.

One African representative of those Khrushchev was trying most to impress with his professed intention to end all colonialism.

sardonically commented that he was glad to soak up atmosphere in "such an august assemblage."

Setback on Congo
No matter how the vote goes today on Khrushchev's proposal, he is still likely to be the loser. There is a good chance the proposal will carry — and be the first purely Soviet proposal to do so in the 15 years of the U.N. But that will be in spite of the Russians, Africans and other former colonial peoples are unlikely to vote against a proposal to free others. But the force of the Soviet propaganda accompanying the proposal has been lost.

Even in advance of this 15th assembly session, Khrushchev had suffered a severe setback in Africa's chaotic Congo. He could have learned from it that fledgling nations lean on the U.N. for protection. Uncommitted countries overwhelmedly supported Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's activities in the Congo. That should have indicated to Khrushchev — as became plain later — that his attempt to rip the U.N. machinery apart and render it powerless was doomed in advance.

Uncle Sam Target
Khrushchev also apparently wanted to promote an approach doesn't mean that a little belching to disarmament on Kremlin or flatulence or gasiness means terms with the U.N. as a forum for inspiring doubt in American good faith. He probably wanted to assert a dictatorial Soviet voice in shaping the world's future. He wanted to talk over the stomach heads of leaders to people around the world.

He also may have wanted to impress the Red Chinese and other high-impres who disagree with him that the Kremlin way of advancing the cause of Communism is best and safest.

How did he fare?
He took a beating when he failed to convince the non-Communist world that it should get rid of the secretary-general's office. He lost in failing to stop discussion of Communist suppression in Hungary and Tibet. He lost in failing to send the disarmament issue to the full assembly for debate. On that one, he was hurting badly. He had staked much on an impressive vote for the Soviet point of view, even if it might lose. It lost overwhelmingly.

Threats Futile
The defeats came in spite of his ominously threatening language. So transparent seemed his efforts to turn the assembly into a propaganda forum on the arms issue that even the neutrals, not noted for friendliness to U.S. propositions, failed to back his most cherished proposal. His displays of anger showed how much the setback pained him.

In his bid for support in Africa, Khrushchev may consider he made some progress. He gave the impression of slapping the ghosts of colonialism in the eye. He played on the theme to the utmost. Africans listened intently, liking the sound of his demand for speedy independence for all colonial areas.

Khrushchev did not quit while he was ahead.

The Soviet leader's display last night obviously shocked delegates from many persuasions and from many areas.

They may vote for his proposal on colonialism. It may carry. But that will be in spite of Khrushchev, and not because of him. His display means that he has snatched defeat from the jaws of his U.N. can be a criterion, the one prospect for a clear-cut victory. Khrushchev for three weeks. The Soviet premier at another point had a chance to come out the outcome to date.

To Your Good Health Stomach Lining Irritated With Chronic Gastritis

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.
A reader complains that she has written before, but has received no answer. She asks, "Can chronic gastric be cured? Is it serious? Just what does it mean? Can you suggest a diet? Is B-12 injection helpful?"

In my own humble defense, may I say that I have discussed this before—and, doggone it, there is some malignant fate that arranges things so that people are out of town, or attending a clambake, or it's Aunt Gram's birthday or something the day the item of particular interest appears in the newspaper. So they miss it—and in time I tackle the subject again and bring it up to date.

Chronic gastritis is an irritation of the stomach lining. This doesn't mean that a little belching to disarmament on Kremlin or flatulence or gasiness means terms with the U.N. as a forum for inspiring doubt in American good faith. He probably wanted to assert a dictatorial Soviet voice in shaping the world's future. He wanted to talk over the stomach heads of leaders to people around the world.

Common Causes
The most frequent causes are improper eating, especially highly-seasoned foods that are irritating, excess alcohol, excess smoking. I don't know whether you drink any alcohol, but if so, the first rule is to stop entirely. The drinking habit, while by no means the only cause of C.G., is a frequent and important one.

Gassy stomach is only one of the symptoms. It and others may include ulcers, gall bladder trouble, or even cancer. There can be pain or soreness of the upper stomach, nausea, vomiting with or without blood, and poor appetite.

Exact diagnosis can be achieved by a gastroscopist by which the physician can examine the stomach lining itself. X-ray gives much information; other tests involving the chemistry of stomach acids help.

Treatment
Treatment? Stop use of alcohol, tobacco, highly seasoned foods. Follow a bland diet—low in roughage. Regularity of eating habits is important, too. Injections of B-12 help. So does taking Vitamin B complex in capsule form. specialized tests to be positive whether you have chronic gas.

Although in some ways the tritis, gall bladder disease or treatment may resemble that for gallstones, or ulcer, or one or some of the other troubles I've mentioned, there are also certain differences. So it is important for your doctor to be sure. If you have, for instance, an ulcer or bumpy gall bladder, he wants to be sure of that because of the modifications in treatment. You might require surgery, or some alteration in treatment. Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 20 cents in coin to cover handling. Gino Cimoli (20) of the Pittsburgh Pirates slides into second base in the seventh inning of Wednesday's sixth World Series game. ## Bruhn Is Planning A Few Surprises

Wisconsin Expected to be at Full Strength for Iowa Tilt

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin triumph over Purdue, Miller coach Milt Bruhn said Wednesday pleted 12 of 23 passes for 203 yards. He also carried the ball 9 times for 39 yards for a pacesetter. Bruhn said the team has been planning a few surprises for the Hawkeyes.

"We don't have any intentions of trying to win with passing on the list in the weekly Association," Bruhn said. "Our running attack is going to be the best it has been this year."

"Last year we surprised Iowa with a man-in-motion in our 25-16 victory and I'm hoping we can come up with something similar this time," he added.

Bruhn said that sophomore star Ron Miller did such a good job against Purdue last weekend that he was planning to use him in several special maneuvers. Miller has taken the lead in Big Ten Conference total offense and in passing. In Wisconsin's 24-13 tri-

Sets Series Mark

Houk's Tip Changed Richardson to Slugger

PITTSBURGH (AP) — To paratrooper of Pittsburgh gave him a private Shakespearean name, "The Great Escape," said coach Ralph Houk. Richardson, a grand slam home run and batted in six runs, fed that he had grown so great.

"No bar is so potent as in New York won by the Yankees in secret position," Houk said.

New York Yankee second base, Wednesday against the Pirates, said today in explaining his transformation from a puny 250-pounder to a slugger who has erased the mark is 360 and includes the some of the proudest and oldest home runs in the history of the World Series.

By contrast his seasons average was 252 in the 154 regular season games he had only 26 home runs in the 1954 season. Houk told me at the end of the season that I should spread my stance some more and concentrate on just meeting the ball. He told me to quit trying to secret trips to a neighborhood kill the ball or hit home runs, but muscle emporium. He uses a norjust try for placed base hits. He bat—35 ounces—but a bit thought it would help me next season heavier than that of Mickey Mansion. I guess the returns have come a little early."

Grand Slam

Richardson, a mild-mannered, soft-speaking YMCA worker from Sumter, S.C., said he still couldn't record. I never knew until after believe he had set the record for the game that 10 (by Yogi Berra three runs-batted-in in a series, in 1956 and Ted Kluszewski in three RBI Wednesday in the 12-0, 1959) was the record."

Richardson Leads New York To Third 1-Sided Triumph; Pirates Use 6 on Mound

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Yankees in the first and fourth games of all World Series comes to an end today in the seventh and payoff game, with New York's Yankees once again a 13-0 favorite to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates just as they were at the start of the activity eight days ago.

Packers Strive To Improve Aerial Game

Lombardi May Try Hackbart Against 49ers

GREEN BAY (AP) — Green Bay Packers Coach Vince Lombardi isn't satisfied just because his team is leading the National Football League in rushing.

He wants it to do better in passing.

As a result the Packers got a long workout on the overhead game when they resumed practice Wednesday after a two-day layoff.

Quarterbacks Lamar McHan and Bart Starr alternated in throwing from their spot and halfback Paul Hornung worked on passes as an alternate to roll out running plays.

Lombardi reminded his men that they couldn't expect to continue to get the breaks they got last Sunday when they upset the champion Baltimore Colts 35-21.

Must Improve

He told them they would have to improve in passing to go with the running game that has given them the league lead with 567 yards in three games.

Dale Hackbart, former University of Wisconsin quarterback again got a long workout on deep defense. Lombardi hasn't used the former Badger star in a league game yet but indicated he might try him out in the battle with the San Francisco 49ers at Milwaukee on Oct. 23.

The Packers have an open date next Sunday and will get two days of rest again this weekend. They will workout today and Friday and then lay off Saturday and Sunday before resuming regular drills next Monday. Many of the players plan to go to Chicago Sunday to see the Chicago Bears and 49ers play.

Bob Schwartz, manager of the Packers' ticket office in Milwaukee reported Wednesday that several thousand tickets still were available for the game with the 49ers.

Fights Last Night

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Coach Buck Shaw of the National Football League Philadelphia Eagles is thinking about employing dummies and sleds in practice more often.

The Eagles hit the sleds and dummies Wednesday in their first such practice in more than a month.

"I think we'll have a couple of sessions each week with the dummies and the charging sleds from now on," said Shaw. He described the tackling as "scattershot" and the blocking as "loosey" in last Sunday's 31-27 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The results to date aren't too surprising when you consider that forecasting has never been a strong point in my family. Forebears of mine predicted that: Hannibal would never get his elephants over the mountains, that the Wright Brothers would never get their contraption off the ground and that Napoleon would win the battle of Waterloo. With the usual caution against taking the picks too seriously, we'll have another go at it.

Wisconsin over Iowa—This is known as going off the deep end, but little that the amazing young Badgers do can surprise me any more. The last two times a UW team has started the season with three straight wins (1957 and '58), Iowa blew the whistle—and the powerful Hawks will be favored to do it again. But, on the premise that the '60 Badgers could be a team of destiny, I believe they won't cringe before precedent or Iowa's reputation.

Marquette over Indiana — The Hoosiers have had their troubles, both on and off the field, and things don't figure to get better when the re-energized Warriors come to town. MU has come up with the depth and confidence to offset the loss of several key players by injury and is ready for an upset.

Lawrence over Beloit—Vike sophomores have become acclimated to tough Midwest Conference play, and they could prove the difference in an even-Stephen game. The Vike offense showed signs of perking up last Saturday.

Appleton over South—The Terrors are in the mood to make somebody pay for their two narrow losses. Kaukauna over Shawano—Anxious to preserve their

MU May Lose Herb Roedel for Rest of Year

Guard Has Pinched Nerve; 3 Other Players Still Out

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Coach Lisle Blackburn takes his Marquette University football team to Indiana Friday with the old injury jinx right in his hip pocket.

"I'm not trying to come up with an alibi," Blackburn said Wednesday. "but the shape we're in right now might mean trouble this weekend."

Blackburn was counting heavily this season on the services of guard Herb Roedel of Neenah, only to learn that the keystone in the Marquette line could be out for the remainder of the season because of the injuries he suffered in the 13-12 victory over Boston College.

Pinched Nerve

Roedel, a three season veteran, has been benched with a banded up shoulder and hip. The shoulder injury is a pinched nerve, similar to an injury he received during spring practice.

Other Marquette regulars

knocked out with bumps and bruises include fullback Mike Koehler, halfback Dave Theisen and halfback Karl Kasulke.

"As it was we were getting along without too much trouble," Blackburn said. "Mike Shea does a good job as fullback with help from John Lane and Ralph Kubinski. But with Roedel out, well?"

Marquette has had its troubles with Indiana in the past, especially in the scoring department.

In previous meetings, the Warriors lost a 20-14 lead in 1953 when a penalty cost precious yards and the Hoosiers came up with a 21-20 triumph; then there was the 33-13 loss to Indiana last season; a 19-13 loss for Marquette in 1956 and other Indiana wins by scores of 18-7 and 46-6.

The Warriors held a rugged

workout today and leave for Bloomington, Ind., Friday morning, where they will hold a short workout in the afternoon.

AFL Reports Attendance Is Increasing

DALLAS (AP)—The American Football League announced Wednesday a steady increase in attendance as the new league gets a third of the schedule out of the way.

The office of the league said 18 games had drawn 357,335—an average of 19,852.

Late-Game Score Beats Vike Frosh

The Lawrence College freshman football team lost to the St. Norbert College Junior Varsity, 16-13, at St. Norbert Wednesday afternoon and lost star end Bob Picard for the season in the process.

Trailing, 13-12, the JV Knights won the game with a touchdown in the final six minutes.

Lawrence scored the game's first touchdown in the first quarter. Paul Cromheecke recovered a St. Norbert fumble on the Knight's 31. After three plays quarterback Bob Mueller fired to right end Bob Picard on a 31-yard touchdown pass play.

Carl Berghult's try for the extra point was wide.

Neither team was able to move the rest of the first quarter. Early in the second period the winners' Pete Hoffmann of Chilton took a Lawrence punt near his own 15 and went down the sideline for the TD. Berghult blocked the St. Norbert point try.

Drives 52 Yards

Lawrence drove 52 yards to the St. Norbert 1-yard-line later in the second quarter, but fumbled. The Knights took over and the half ended, 6-6.

Picard was injured in that series and remained overnight in St. Vincent Hospital. He'll remain there several days for observation of a back injury.

Picard, a great prep gridder at Menominee, Mich., played on the Michigan State University freshman team last fall. He broke several bones in the small of his back while throwing a diving block.

perfect record and to please homecomers, the powerful Ghosts will rout the invading Indians.

Kimberly over New London—The "new look" Bulldogs have earned the respect of all their 1960 foes. The only reason I pick the Papermakers in this virtual toss-up is the danger of a New London let-down after its exhilarating win over Clintonville.

Two Rivers over Menasha—The Raider offense looms as slightly more potent.

Neenah over Clintonville—The Rockets are now in high gear, as shown by their unexpectedly easy win over Kimberly.

St. Mary over Lourdes—The Zephyrs' experience and finesse will make the difference in this battle of unbeaten.

St. John over Pennings—The Dutchmen are in no mood to be trifled with after an almost-unheard-of 2-game losing streak. Pennings, which has beaten weak teams by 1-sided scores, has failed twice against strong opposition: Pacelli and St. Mary.

Other Games—Chilton over New Holstein, Brillion over Valders, Marion over Weyauwega, Bonduel over Wittenberg, Waupaca over Manawa, Xavier over Fox Valley Lutheran, Monmouth over Coe, Ripon over Cornell, Carleton over Grinnell, St. Olaf over Knox, Omro over Reedsville, Denmark over Shiocton, Freedom over Winneconne, Wrightstown over Hortonville, De Pere over Seymour, Fond du Lac over East, Oshkosh over North, Manitowoc over West.

Woman Forfeits For Failure to Yield Right of Way

NEENAH — Injured in a motorcycle-car accident at S. Commercial and Peckham Streets at 5:04 p.m. Wednesday was Daniel Heath, 20, 124 Plummer Court, whose motorcycle and a car driven by Mrs. Jeannette Earl, 1110 Dak St., collided.

Heath was taken in the Neenah ambulance to Theda Clark Hospital where he was treated for knee and head cuts and then released.

Mrs. Earl forfeited $14.20 at the police station for failure to yield the right-of-way. She was headed east on Peckham Street and did not see the motorcycle, headed north on S. Commercial Street, when she entered the highway.

A car driven by Mrs. Mary C. Huhn, 449 E. Columbia Ave., was damaged on the front end when it struck a parked car owned by David F. Lenz, 629 E. Doty Ave., which was parked in front of 419 E. Columbia Ave. at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

She pleaded guilty of inattentive driving when arraigned before Police Justice E. P. Arpin this morning and was fined $10 and costs. She said she was trying to put the cigarette lighter back when she lost control of the car and hit the parked vehicle.

Klein Suggests Complete Survey of Airport Users

MENASHA — A complete survey of industrial users of Winnebago County airport at Oshkosh should be made before any action is taken on accepting or rejecting the joint airport recently proposed by Outagamie County, Mayor John Klein said today.

Commenting on the idea of establishing a joint airport to serve the two counties from a location west of Neenah, Klein said: "I'm not sold on the idea yet, because there was not enough checking into it. I know all industries were not asked."

Tuesday, the Outagamie County board of supervisors resolved to ask Winnebago's board to join in the airport construction project, which would mean the Oshkosh facility would be discontinued. An answer by Dec. 31 was requested.

Police Chief Chastises Letter Writer

MENASHA — Police Chief Peter P. Clark Wednesday night took exception to a letter which appeared in the Post-Crescent's letter to the editor column Oct. 6. In the letter, signed "Menasha Citizen," the writer berated the police department for not making an arrest at an accident in which the car hit a house.

Chief Clark said, "I make the arrests, they do not." He said if they wanted an arrest made, "Why didn't someone come down to the police station and sign a complaint."

He contended no one actually saw the accident in question and complaints were made only after police had left the scene.

Doctor Pleads Guilty To Driving Under Barbiturate Influence

OSHKOSH — Dr. William H. Dushack, 33, 307-A Merritt Ave., pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Arnold J. Cane this morning of driving a car while under the influence of barbiturates.

His driver's license automatically was revoked for one year and sentencing was deferred to 10:30 a.m. Monday.

Dr. Dushack was arrested at 9:20 a.m. Sept. 20 on Bowen Street in Oshkosh while driving erratically. He has been hospitalized at Mercy Hospital since.

Dr. Dushack is now on a leave of absence from Winnebago State Hospital and has been having psychiatric treatment. Judge Cane deferred sentencing until he can receive information from the psychiatrist.

Endorsement Of Letters Draws Debate

Commission Argues Over Wording of Motion on Requests

MENASHA — Letters from the Fire Fighting local and the Police Protective Association on pay and benefit requests for the coming year were received by the Menasha Police and Fire Commission Wednesday night, with a squabble developing over whether to endorse the requests or just go on record as having received them.

Commission Sec. Richard O'Brien said the letters shouldn't be passed off. "They are important to the men," he said. "We should endorse them."

The Fire Department requested a flat 5 per cent base pay increase and department reorganization to create four additional command positions.

3 Per Cent

The firemen said that in 1958 they only received a 3 per cent pay increase and last year the increase was only 2 per cent.

Reorganization was necessary, they said, because the present department was set up when there were only 10 firemen. There now are 19 on the fire department.

Police requests included a raise in the top pay of patrolmen from $3,025 to $3,200 a year, an increase in clothing allowance from $50 to $75 a year, three weeks paid vacation from 10 years on the force instead of the present 15 year requirement, time and a half for overtime work and an increase in the number of paid holidays.

Specify Holidays

The last request drew a question from Commissioner Kenneth Holmes. He noted policemen now have three paid holidays but the request for additional paid holidays did not specify which days the policemen wanted off. The commission couldn't act until they knew exactly what the policemen wanted, he said.

President P. J. Gazecki said it was up to the city council to act on the Police and Fire Department requests and that the commission should just go on record as having received them.

Endorse Requests

O'Brien insisted the commission should endorse the requests. A compromise was finally agreed upon in which the commission would lend its backing to the requests without formally endorsing all of the proposals.

A revised police department budget was referred to commission members for an itemized check before any action was taken. J. C. Penney Co. will take over its store in about four weeks. These firms will then begin installing their fixtures and merchandise and begin training their sales forces. Peckarsky said the Penney Co. usually has a 90-day training period.

Some of the stores will open for business during January but the grand opening will be in early February when the Penney Co. opens.

JCs Not Connected With YGOP Meeting At Neenah Tonight

NEENAH — The Neenah-Menasha Junior Chamber of Commerce has no official connection with the Young Republican Club meeting at 8 p.m. tonight at the Valley Inn, John Pearson, president of the Jaycees said today.

Warren Knowles, former lieutenant governor and candidate for that post again, will speak on the importance of young business people in politics. Richard A. Larsen of West Bend, YGOP state chairman and a Jaycee member, also will speak.

The Post-Crescent was misinformed when it stated Wednesday the meeting would be a joint session of the Winnebago county YGOP and the Jaycees. Pearson emphasized the Jaycees are a non-partisan group and have no connection with any party. They have sponsored a series of political forums to stir citizen interest in the coming election.

Council to Adopt New Storm Sewer Plan for Menasha

1958 Estimate $1,289,000, See Possible Decrease in Price

MENASHA — City councilmen next Tuesday will formally adopt plan 2C, prepared by McMahon Engineering Co., to drain a 2,183-acre area of the northeast part of Menasha and the contiguous town of Menasha area.

Cost was estimated at $1,289,000 in October, 1958, when the engineering firm prepared nine separate schemes — three major plans each subdivided three ways.

The costs probably will be about the same now, and may be somewhat less, if winter construction bids are secured, according to A. W. Scholl, vice president of the Engineering firm. He and Robert McMahon, an engineer, conferred two hours with the city councilmen in a special committee of the whole session Wednesday night.

The engineers recommended the 2-C scheme as the best for future growth of the city, to drain runoff water from the area until all is built-up, much like a city.

Shun Lift Stations

The estimate shows $1,080,671 for construction costs, $19,000 for land and right-of-way, $108,067 for contingencies (10 per cent of construction costs), $22,000 for inspections and $59,436 for engineering fees. Financing will be by bond issue.

Alldermen decided against wanting to adopt any plan in the "3" category, since each involves installing lift stations, priced at $170,000 to $244,000, and requiring much maintenance.

Scheme 2-C would require 8,270 feet of 96-inch pipe, costing $533,628 and install: 2,100 feet of 72-inch pipe, $82,950; 1,700 feet of 60-inch, $42,500; 3,500 feet of 36-inch, $44,800; and 3,990 feet of 30-inch, $37,905. Other pipe, in smaller sizes, is specified.

Pipe, at least in larger sizes, would be fabricated here in a mobile plant operated by or for the firm.

Commission Delays Reinstatement Ruling

Seeks Legal Opinion Before Acting
On Request of Discharged Policeman

MENASHA — The Menasha Police Commission Wednesday night tabled a request the city attorney. from Richard Zeiminger for reinstatement on the Menasha police force pending a legal opinion from City Atty. Richard J. Steifens. Zeiminger, 36, 921 9th St., was dismissed from the force Jan. 21 after admitting the Jan. 16 burglary of Nelson Vending Sales Inc., 137 Water St.

A psychiatric report from Central State Hospital on Zeiminger was received by the commission but was not discussed at the meeting. However, Commission Pres. P. J. Gazecki said that after going over the report he was not in favor of Zeiminger's reinstatement.

Doctor's Report
Commissioners George Lenz and Kenneth Holmes requested that no decision be made until an opinion was received from the city attorney. Holmes also wanted another doctor's report to see if there was any precedent for rehiring anyone under those circumstances.

Police Chief Peter P. Clark said he had not "come to a decision."

Plan Adoption Of New Sewer Route Plan

major contractor. Such large sizes seldom are stock items, because of difficulty and costs of transportation.

The storm sewer system will be in two sections. The smaller one will run west under Ninth street to Little Lake Butte des Morts from DePere street, in 24 and 30-inch pipe.

The larger portion feeds into the lower lake through 96-inch concrete pipe. The 96-inch section begins on Levey street, northeast of Airport road, then west one block north of and parallel with Airport road, to the Amos Paze farm, where it angles northwesterly to the lake.

The 96-inch pipe is joined by a 72-inch pipe running north on Melissa street from Ninth street.

Two to Converge
Two major pipes will converge to join the 72-inch pipe at Ninth and Melissa streets. Pipe ranging from 24 to 36 inches will run from Appleton road east to Melissa. A 60-inch main will run north on Melissa, intercepting storm water from Eighth, Harding and Seventh streets and Plank road.

The drainage area will include all of the northeast part of the city, as well as Town of Menasha areas bounded by Midway road on the north and Highway 10 on the east.

Storm water runoff from those town areas has caused most of the flooding in the northeast part of the Fourth Ward.

The engineers told aldermen they believe the project can be started about January. At that time of year, contractors will be eager to bid on jobs and will be highly competitive, they added.

Since the job will be so large, the project can be broken into sections, so more than one contractor could bid and many crews could be working to complete the job rapidly.

Rescind Plan 3-C
Scholl and McMahon told councilmen they knew the council July 1, 1959 had adopted plan 3-C, but they never had been directed to prepare final plans for the project. Last week, the council decided to rescind plan 3-C in favor of one with larger drainage area.

Final plans can be ready in about two months, with bidding completed in about another month, the engineers said.

During the discussion, Ald. Robert Sullivan asked some future consideration for a storm sewer for his Third Ward, which was badly affected by high water and heavy rain during May. Scholl said a project to drain the Island might cost $20,000.

Easements for the storm sewer help by Page, Town of Menasha route will be procured by Mayor chairman.

Is Your Family Getting Nutrition It Should?

BY DOROTHY WHIFFLE, M.D.
AP Newsfeature

Most Americans have enough money to buy all the food they need, yet many are not nearly as well nourished as they should be. We don't see real starvation around us, but we do see people with no vim and vigor, youngsters with poor posture and flabby muscles. We hear cross, irritable voices and see tired, drawn faces.

Not all human ills can be cured by improving the diet, but you may be surprised how much unnecessary misery is swallowed in the form of doughnuts and jam.

Buoyant Health
Good buoyant health is what we are after. Clear bright eyes, smooth firm skin, strong muscles, shiny hair, sound teeth, erect posture, straight bones, peaceful nerves.

If your body works well, at least some of the tensions of our hectic world will roll off your back. It is not always within our power to reduce tensions, but it is within our power to nourish our bodies to the optimum. As the mother of a family you can do more. You provide good food for your family and teach your children the principles of good eating, so that when they leave home they will continue what you started.

Why is it that the knowledge of nutrition is not better applied? There are several reasons. Food faddists have given nutrition a bad name. Some of the horrible concoctions that are supposed to be good for you are enough to scare anyone off. The truth is, truly nutritious food is delicious to eat. There is no reason to eat anything you don't like. Nutrition is a question of selection and preparation of good food.

Another reason the real laboratory knowledge we have about nutrition is not absorbed by the public is because the bulk of our knowledge comes not from scientists, but from commercial food manufacturers.

Keep Better
Highly refined foods keep better than do natural foods. Bacteria, fungi, molds and weevils do not grow in highly milled flour as they do in ground whole grains, because there isn't enough nourishment in the refined food to keep them alive. There isn't enough in them to nourish humans, either, but the food makers don't tell us that. They do tell us

Boat Club Plans Fall Programs
WINNECONNE — At the October meeting of the Winneconne Boat Club Tuesday, it was decided to order six booklets of "Recreation Boat Guide." The Coast Guard has requested that faulty blinkers and buoys be reported to them.

New boating regulations and life saving techniques and devices were discussed.

Because of election falling on the regular meeting night, the next meeting will be held at the village hall Nov. 1.

Appointed to the committee to plan the annual Christmas party were Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Hoger, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Germaine and Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Kiefer.

Election of officers will be held at the November meeting. Serving on the refreshment committee will be Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Kiefer and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Larson.

Prizes at Tuesday's meeting were awarded Mr. and Mrs. Dan Bonnette, Mr. and Mrs. John Freund were co-chairmen of the refreshment committee.

Report Theft of Shotguns in Car
MENASHA — Two shotguns were reported stolen from a parked car Wednesday to police. Robert J. Marsh, route 1, Menasha, and Norman C. Thiel, 626 Laudan Blvd., own the weapons.

The car, parked on Water street, was pried open, evidently with a crowbar, police found.

One shotgun is a Remington 12-gauge Magnum, valued at $86, and the other a Browning light 12-gauge, $130.

8-Session Course Of Semantics at Menasha Vocational MENASHA — An 8-session course in semantics will be offered through the Fox River Valley vocational schools at Menasha Vocational and Adult School, beginning Monday. Classes will meet at 7 p.m.

Kenneth G. Johnson of the University of Wisconsin will instruct the course, aimed at helping people communicate with others, both in addressing and understanding them. It is not a grammar or English course, but emphasizes the relationship between language and behavior, and contrasts the kinds of language that create confusion and trouble with the language of creative problem-solving.

Other vocational schools participating will be Neenah, Appleton, Kimberly and Kaukauna. Enrollment warranted only offering the course in one location.

Home Agent Has Ways For Writing Ink Removal

OSHKOSH — On washable fab- rics, the safest first step for re- moving all writing inks, except those from ball point pens, is to soak the stained fabric in cool water. Leave it for at least 30 minutes or as long as overnight, advises Miss Lois Klusmeyer, county home agent. Then rub with soap or synthetic detergent and wash in warm suds.

If a stain remains, a chlorine bleach may be used on all fab- rics except wool, silk, vicara and those with special finishes. Use sodium perborate or a perborate bleach, one to two tablespoons to a cup of hot water, on fab- rics with special finishes. Using the hot water makes the bleach work better.

On wool, silk and vicara, sponge with cool water until no more ink is removed. Then try sponging with an ammonia solution, one

Nixon Beats Sen. Kennedy In Mock Vote

Light Turnout In Runoff at Oshkosh State

OSHKOSH — Vice Pres. Richard Nixon outdistanced Sen. John Kennedy by 58 votes in the mock election conducted on the Oshkosh State College campus Tuesday.

Nixon had a total of 314 votes while Kennedy had 256.

The election was jointly sponsored by the Young Republican and Young Democratic clubs at the college.

Machines Used
Voting machines were used for the first time in a mock election at the school and of 758 students who voted, 188 made mistakes with the machines that disqualified their ballots. Consequently, 570 legal ballots were cast. This represents about 25 per cent of the student body.

Officials of both the GOP and Democratic clubs were disappointed at the turnout, especially after a mock convention last spring drew out better than half of the student body.

A survey was taken to determine the reason for the light turnout and in most cases those questioned said they had not fully made up their mind who they would really vote for if they were 21 years of age and therefore did not want to make a choice even in the mock balloting.

The 758 ballots cast, including those which had to be disqualified, represent 34 per cent of the student body.

Clarence Westfahl, county 4-H club agent, has announced that plans are progressing for the achievement night program Nov. 2 at the Winneconne Central School.

Wiley Calls GOP Record 'Star-Studded'

Ripon Republicans Hear Senator at Club's First Rally

RIPON — Sen. Alexander Wiley, speaking before the first Republican rally staged by the newly organized Ripon GOP Club Wednesday night, said the Republican record during the last 7½ years was "star-studded with great strides forward in a great many fields."

The senior senator from Wisconsin said the Republicans face a job of continuing to provide leadership "for making a wonderful country even greater for the future."

The high marks of progress in the Eisenhower administration, Wiley said, include "creating the mightiest jet-nuclear-missile-space defense forces in history," curtailing the rising cost of living, completing the St. Lawrence Seaway and spurring on space exploration programs, including launching many satellites and space probes — exceeding a number and significance the Soviet space shots.

"Overall," Wiley added, "The GOP has written a great record into the pages of American history."

Military Might Wiley moved into the 1960 Republican platform saying that "under the Eisenhower-Nixon administration our military might has been forged into a power second to none." This strength, he said, must continue to deter aggression and encourage the growth of freedom in the world.

The veteran campaigner also commented on the farm problem. Americans are the best-fed and best clothed people in the world. Our challenge fortunately is one of dealing with abundance, not over coming shortage," he added. "The Republican party pledges itself to develop new programs to improve and stabilize farm family income. It recognizes two main challenges: The immediate one of utilizing income-depressing surpluses, and the long range one of steadily balanced growth and development with a minimum of federal interference and control."

"If the Republicans are to be victorious in November," Wiley said, "All of us must do everything we can for election of Republican candidates selflessly dedicated to serve our state and nation in the challenging times ahead."

Methodist Women Of Nine States Hear Bishop Alton

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A Methodist bishop declared Wednesday night that "too much of Christian faith lines the dress of life instead of being part of the fabric."

Bishop Ralph T. Alton of Madison told Methodist women attending a nine-state North Central Jurisdiction conference that "the word of God is not subject to our ratification or amendment."

Bishop Alton is former pastor of First Methodist church, Appleton. The women were attending the opening of the 19th annual meeting of the Jurisdiction of the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Service of the church heard an Tsuguo Ikeda, director of the Seattle Atlantic Street Center, said that the playing of bongo drums was helpful in his work with emotionally disturbed children.

Mrs. R. C. Lawrenson, Sioux City, Iowa, the regional treasurer, said that women in the North Central Jurisdiction gave $2,577,104 for missionary work in the last fiscal year.

The 130 delegates to the convention represent 486,795 Methodists in 7,100 local churches in Wisconsin, North and South Dakota, Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Mummy Kept By Woman For 20 Years

RUTHIN, WALES (AP) — A widow of 65 went on trial for murder today in the weird case of the mummified corpse kept around for 20 years.

The prosecution charged that Mrs. Sarah Jane Harvey strangled a woman lodger in 1940 and then kept drawing maintenance money from the woman's estranged husband to a total of $5,779.

The corpse was discovered when Mrs. Harvey's son broke open a closet while redecorating the house. He recognized Mrs. Francis Alice Knight, a middle-aged cripple who boarded at the house in 1940.

The body was propped up amid thick layers of dust, a silk stocking tied around its neck. The prosecution says the corpse became mummified by a freak of nature due to currents of air in the closet.

Mrs. Harvey was quoted as telling police: "I realize that I have been very foolish but I kept trying to keep things covered up."

At the court office where she collected the money, the prosecution said, Mrs. Harvey pretended that Mrs. Knight was still alive and bedridden.

Test Rocket Ship Today

X15 Powered by New Engine; Note Brake Problems

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The X15 rocket plane's first flight with a powerful new engine, postponed yesterday, takes place today if tail-flap trouble is remedied in time.

In a preflight check yesterday, engineers found that the flaps interfered with side-to-side steering movement of the lower portion of the plane's bottom, or ventral fin.

Extended outward, they slow the craft's speed. Test Pilot Scott Crossfield said the brakes are essential for the flight. Otherwise the big engine can't be held with speed and altitude limits imposed by the government.

The new rocket engine, designated XLR99, is built to go 50 to 100 miles high at speeds up to 4,000 miles per hour.

Crossfield said that at minimum idling speed, with the throttle only half open, the X15 still would exceed the contract limit of twice the speed of sound — 1,320 p. h. — unless the brakes are wide open throughout the flight.

The initial test of the engine was ordered to determine the craft's airworthiness with the new power plant — not to set any records.

With an engine of one-third the thrust of the new XLR99, the X15 has set an altitude record of 136,500 feet and a speed record of 2,196 m. p. h.

'Seedtime on Cumberland' Fascinating River Tale

BY W. G. ROGERS

AP Arts Editor ("Seedtime on the Cumberland," by Harriette Simpson Arnow, Macmillan, $7.50.)

The Cumberland River empties into the Ohio a few miles north of the Tennessee, and flows, vaguely parallel to the better known and more southerly river, off east for more than 700 miles to the Appalachians. Its source by straight line is about 325 miles from the Ohio; its big city, Nashville.

Mrs. Arnow comes from this country. She got there her fine novel, "Hunter's Horn." She now gets there an outstanding work of history, adventure and wonderful local color of a significance much greater than the narrow domain which is strictly her subject.

The river was finally charted only about the time of the Revolutionary War, and only then did Daniel Boone find his way through the Cumberland Gap. It was after the war that the first recorded miner settled there.

Pioneer Period It is with this period that the book is concerned, the last quarter of the 18th century when the American going into that rugged but beautiful country was utterly on his own.

To be sure, the miner came with a European tradition, knew about gunpowder, had tools or could invent substitutes — a water bottle, for instance, as a level in laying the wall of a log cabin.

Old-Worldly about the life he led. His chief delicacy in meat was beaver tail, young bear cub, or buffalo tongue — provided he wasn't run down and trampled by a bison charging at 40 miles an hour.

His chief danger was Indians who ran off his horses, or scolded him; when two men went hunting, only one fired at a time, so a shot was left ready for a lurking Redskin.

Best Hunting Over The best hunting was over there used to be 50-pound turkeys, and countless deer — by the Revolution, though it was still an early and uncouth America. The householder could own a fiddle, books by Payne or Voltaire, chest.

Lunch Counters Open to Negroes In 90 Dixie Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers said today that Justice Department mediation had opened chain store lunch counters to Negroes in 90 Southern and border state cities since June 1.

Rogers issued a 3,000-word review of Republican administration civil rights actions in a report ranging from proposed legislation through litigation to the mediation method.

He announced on Aug. 10, after scores of lunch counter "sit-ins" in Southern cities, that he had been calling in executives of various chains to enlist their help in ending the demonstrations.

He said then that store management, "in conjunction with local authorities and other interested groups," had quietly brought about desegregation of lunch counters in 68 communities.

The same program has been carried out in 21 additional communities, he reported today, bringing the total to 90.

Electric Strike to Be Campaign Issue

BY VICTOR RIESEL

This final conflict between the first cracking the striking union. General Electric Co. and the union leaders of the national labor movement will become a major presidential issue whether the candidates like it or not.

This I discovered when I went to a neutral in Bucyrus, O.

The neutral, interested only in law and order, was Capt. Smith of the local police force. He had been observing the industrial war sweeping his 10,000-population city as it has other communities through which I've traveled from the Boston area to Texas.

Laconically, Capt. Smith and two associates with the local educational system chose of the "milling and shoving, hat-pin wielding and kicking in of the ears" by pickets in front of the smallest of GE plants.

Got Real Rough

It is a one-story plant right near the school in a workingman's residential area. It is a lamp electric bulb division. Company figures put the production workers' employment at 250, 80 per cent of them women.

Monday morning, a day after the official strike call, they came to work. There was some pushing, Tuesday the pickets massed. They had come in from nearby plants. It got real rough, the neutral observed.

Cars were kicked in. Windows were smashed. Rocks were thrown. Pickets strung cars for a quarter of a mile down the road. A non-striking male employee, Tom Seis, got his head pummeled amid the outcries of parents escorting their youngsters to school. Real life classes were outdoors that morning.

Pickets Arrested

There were arrests of pickets for malicious destruction of property. Some workers in the plant wanted to leave for home Wednesday night. The police chief called in union leaders and got safe conduct through the lines. It did the labor movement and its champions no good in Bucyrus.

Nor has the abandoning of locked cars to block roadways or the forcing of city emergencies elsewhere aided the cause of the striking International Union of Electrical Workers, whose national leader is James B. Carey, an AFL-CIO vice president and a member of its eight-man national executive committee.

Speaking for GE, Philip Moore, chief negotiator, whose title is manager, employee relations service, said:

"We did not call the strike. It was imposed on us by James B. Carey. Every employee has the right to strike. Every employee equally has the right not to strike. We have an obligation to provide jobs wherever we can for those who are willing and able to work. We cannot allow the tactics of lawlessness to sway us from trying to discharge this obligation."

Wants Plants Open

"In the future, as in the past we will continue to do our best to keep our plants open to employees who want to work."

This is the issue, it seems to me, far more than even the official demands and the company offer. The company's insistence on its right to keep its plants going regardless of picket lines on a national level is precedent shattering in our times. Furthermore GE is pulling no punches when it comes to showdowns with the law enforcement people. It already is charging that in some areas the police are "politically unwilling" to protect the plants and help them open.

The union says GE is trying to

'61 School Budget Totals $599,565, $411,294 Requested From Tax Levy

Levy Request Is 8.7 Per Cent Over 1960, Represents About $1.50 Hike in Tax Rate

KAUKAUNA — The Board of handicapped class at Park school Education has approved and will increase from $6,034 in 1960 to $7,000 in 1961, up $966 or 16 per cent school budget for 1961 amounting cent.

The $599,565 of which $411,294 is to be raised by direct tax levy.

Estimated Receipts

A comparison of receipts other than the 1960 budget of 1960 anticipated in state aid for $547,253 and the tax levy request 1961 compared to $53,642 in 1960: is $33,021 or 8.7 per cent more county aid up from $8,400 to $11,800; state aid $25,000; handicapped aid down from $1,000 to $500; transportation $1,000; miscellaneous $1,000; total $53,642. The increase in school extension up from $875 to $2,600; non-penditures would mean an in-resident tuition up from $1,475 to $2,000; increase of about $150 per $1,000 to $85,946 and book rentals and on the tax rate which is current locker fees up from $4.614 to $5.37 per $1,000.

The $411,294 tax levy would be distributed with residents in Kaukauna paying $380,130.93. In the Town of Vandenbroek residents decrease from $3,218 to $2,100 would pay $2,170.11. In Little Chute district No. 8 accounted for $1,115 in 1960 compared to $5,854.28 and in the Town of Kaukauna anticipated $500 in 1961; sum-kaukauna residents would pay $1.50 per school receipts are expected to drop from $562 to $500 and miscellaneous rentals were estimated at $150 compared to $167 in 1960.

Budget Breakdown

Corn Husk Indian Doll Easy To Make, Stem Becomes Face

BY CAPPY DICK

There are few things easier to make than a corn husk Indian doll. The husk and the silk from one ear of corn are all the materials you need. Figure 2 shows the completed doll.

Choose an ear of corn that has about an inch of stem on it. This is important because the stem forms the head of the doll. In removing the husk from the ear, do not tear the leaves off, but carefully pull them back from the ear. Then break the cob off at the stem, leaving stem and husk joined.

After separating the husk and cob, carefully remove the outside leaves of the husk. Decide which side of the stem is to become the doll's face. Tear off enough leaves on that side so the husk will have the appearance of a blanket open slightly at the head. Finally trim the ends at the front. Draw a face on the of the husk even so the Indian stem, using ink or colored pen, will stand up alone.

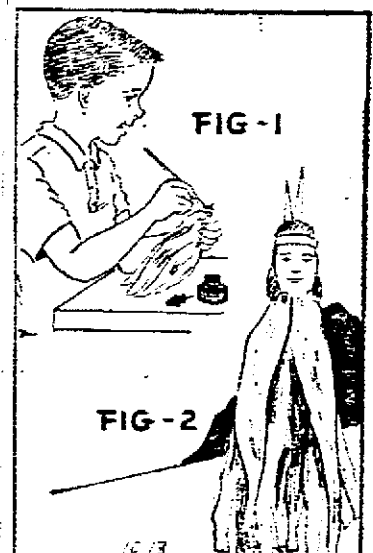

That's what the boy is doing in Figure 1. It is not necessary to supply arms for this doll, because, Indian-like, its arms are supposed to be folded beneath its blanket. Wind some brown corn silk around your finger to form a wig. Cut several narrow, point-

English Theater Has Rebirth, Says Speaker

Britisher Eric Salmon Discusses Revived Vigor in College Lecture

BY JAY JOELYN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The long awaited renaissance in the English theater has arrived, fostered by the courage of single-minded producers and the foresightfulness of the government.

Such was the report Eric Salmon, the first of several lecturers to be invited to speak on the modern theater, brought to Lawrence College Wednesday night.

Much of what Salmon described in the reawakening of the British theater resembles the renaissance experienced in the American theater in the 1930s. Primarily it is being given to new playwrights, who, in turn, are reaching into ordinary ways of life to furnish their protests which often soar into poetic theater.

Writer and Producer Salmon, who might be considered in the numbers of the new playwrights and producers alike, is the author of "No Man an Island" and the organizer of Theater Outlook, Ltd., which is planning an American tour. The tour may include Lawrence College next year.

The forerunner of the British renaissance, Salmon said, was Christopher Fry, who gained the pinnacle of his national recognition in 1951 when he was asked to write "Sleep of Princes" for the Festival of Britain as England's literary representative.

However, the festival play proved to be Fry's last original effort for the theater, because, Salmon said, Fry recognized the atmosphere of the British theater was inimical to his poetic format and substance.

The first of the new playwrights was John Osborne, with his "Look Backward in Anger," Salmon, who discounted Osborne's vaunted position to a milestone rather than a leader, explained the production of the play not only contained the tenor of the movement in its style and subject matter but embodied the fruition of the economic conditions that have nurtured the renaissance.

The genesis of the rebirth goes back to the World War II years when England was under the devastating German bombings and the government created the Council for the Encouragement of Music and the Arts to take musical and theatrical programs through the war-torn country.

The CEMA developed into the Arts Council of Great Britain, that encourages the production of worthy new playwrights by making grant awards to producers rather than writers.

Original Producers With this encouragement in the background, two original thinking producers appeared to give the movement substance. They are George Devine, a classical actor and director, and Joan Littlewood.

In 1955, Devine set about to create a repertory company aimed at advancing new playwrights by reopening the Chelsea Royal Court Theater in which George Bernard Shaw was introduced.

The rebirth and the Royal Court each was given a boost when John Osborne applied for an acting job and incidentally presented his "Look Backward in Anger" script.

Touring Company Joan Littlewood is more in character of the rebirth, she said.

She managed a trouping company in northern England for several years with such little response the actors often had to pawn their belongings for transportation.

Although she used unrecognition, playwrights' works, hering into ordinary ways of life to furnish their protests which often soar into poetic theater.

She brought her company off the road to a most unsuccessful theater in London's more seamy Stratford East district and determined to produce a theater that would reflect and touch those who patronized the house, Salmon explained.

Out of this move came Brecht's "The Good Hope" and "The Taste of Honey." Salmon also credited Mrs. Littlewood with bringing in England's first really original musical.

As the renaissance grows, Salmon said, there are developing playwrights who have come to grips with reality on the level of ordinary life, using symbols easily recognized and written into the structure and atmosphere of the play.

Although protest seems to be common ground, the stage has not become a platform for polemics—something that marred the American reawakening of the '30s. Salmon said there are a dozen to 15 tonight British writers working today with encouragement opening the way for more to appear.

However, Salmon said, the man he believes will reach the pinnacle of the epic poetic play which the modern theater needs is John Arden, whose force, imagination and integrity break the bounds of prose into forceful flights of moving poetry.

New President of Brazil Seeks to Put Nation to Work

Idleness, Waste Not Tolerated

By Energetic Janio Quadros

BY EDWARD T. BUTLER

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — President Jânio Quadros, who has the wit and looks of Groucho Marx, wants to put the nation to work.

Work and honesty — those are the guides by which the 43-year-old Quadros promises to give nearly 70 million Brazilians a better life and a bigger voice in the councils of the world.

For Quadros, former governor of booming Sao Paulo state, the fringe of the Latin American laziness in the tropical sun must be erased from the eyes of the world.

Told once of a small town justice of the peace in Sao Paulo who worked only an hour a day, Quadros dashed off this note to his secretary of justice:

"Fire him. The man is really of peace, not of work."

Fear President

Thousands of civil servants fear the president-elect. But he says there is no need for fear by any one turning in a just amount of work in return for a just salary.

As governor of Sao Paulo, Quadros balanced the budget, chiefly by ridding the state of "ghosts" — friends of politicians who collect government salaries but do nothing. Quadros decreed every Sao Paulo government worker must be at his desk at 9 a. m. and remain there until 5 p. m.

Inspects Cars

He once summoned dozens of state policemen to a point on the road from Sao Paulo to the beach resort at Santos. Standing in the middle, Quadros himself hailed every government car, asking Jan. 31 to take office he intended the driver where he was going and to show proof he was on his own words — "clean house."

Wife's Story Gives Painter 'The Brush'

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Joby Baker is an actor by vocation — and a painter by avocation. The trouble, said his actress wife, Joan Blackman, was that he wanted to make his avocation a vacation.

He seemed content to stay around the house and paint all day and let me pay all of the household expenses," she told a divorce court Tuesday — and won the divorce. They were married in May 1939.

Professor Faces Sentencing on Morals Charge

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP) — South College Prof. Joel Dorius, 41, unsuccessful in an appeal from a lower court conviction, will be sentenced next Tuesday for possession of obscene pictures and literature.

Judge August Taveira in Hampden County Superior Court yesterday convicted Dorius after rejecting a defense motion to suppress the evidence on the ground it had been obtained by illegal search and seizure in the Dorius home Sept. 3 during his absence.

The district court conviction, which Dorius appealed, carried a $1,000 fine and a sentence of one year in jail.

Another Smith faculty member, Prof. F. Newton Arvin, 60, one of three convicted of morals charges after an investigation last month, testified for the prosecution before Judge Taveira. He identified articles taken from Dorius' home as material the defendant had shown him a year ago.

Arvin is a professor, Dorius an associate professor, both in the English department. None of the students at the exclusive girls' school was in the small courtroom audience. Donald Sheehan, an assistant to the president of Smith, represented the college.

Pupils Studying Bones Bring Skull to Class

LAWDALE, Calif. (AP) — Teacher Norman Abramson's class was studying anatomy and bones. Abramson should have expected the worst — and it happened.

Two of his students brought him a human skull. Bobby Monson, 10, and Anthony Burns, 11, placed it proudly on Abramson's desk at a grade school here yesterday — and told their apprehensive teacher this story of how they got it. Taking a short cut to school, they passed a vacant house, peered through a window and there on the kitchen sink, they saw a skull. So they brought it to Mr. Abramson. He turned it over to the sheriff's office. They are investigating.

Pure sugar cane... so sweet and clean little Hawaiians eat it raw

(Grown-ups make it into C and H)

You are looking at two of the sweetest products of Hawaii: sugar cane... and little sugar cane eaters.

Here on the Islands, sugar cane grows so pure, sweet and clean, little Hawaiians eat it raw. While we grown-ups make it into sugar... for you. C and H Sugar. World's finest, we believe.

For nature has given Hawaii everything sugar cane needs to grow its sweetest. Our sun shines brightly. Our rains fall gently. And in this earth, even orchids grow wild. This must be where sugar was meant to grow.

So many of our friends on the mainland use C and H Sugar... we hope you are one of them.
